12 JAP PLANES SHOT DOWN

Official News

By YATES McDANIEL

SINGAPORE, Jan. 21 (AP)—Singapore's defenders sharply raised their score against Japan's airmen today, shooting down 12 raiders which blasted at fortifications and thickly settled residential districts of this island citadel.

During the long attack scores of bombs were dropped, but defending airmen had one of their best days. Eyewitnesses observed but two raiders knocked down by anti-aircraft fire.

There was no immediate explanation of the increased effectiveness of the defense which heretofore has accounted for comparatively few of the attackers who caused 150 casualties, 50 fatal, in a severe raid yesterday.

(An official Tokyo broadcast admitted Allied warships were shelling Japan's invasion armies swarming down the Malay jungle coast 60 miles north of Singapore today.

(Japanese newspaper accounts, according to the broadcast, said united nation naval forces were in action in the narrow Malacca straits between the Malay peninsula and Dutch Sumatra, apparently to prevent further Japanese landings.

(The Japanese front-line dispatches said however that the battle flags of the Rising Sun were advancing southward along the Malayan west coast "in spite of the gunfire from enemy ships.")

JAP FORCES ACTIVE

British sources here admitted the Japanese were exceedingly active along a road running southeast of Muar, 80 miles from Singapore, toward Batu Bahat, 60 miles from Singapore, and which then cuts inland toward Kluang on the central Johore railway.

(This road is south and to the rear of the Labis-Yongpeng area where Japanese press dispatches yesterday claimed a large Australian force was trapped, Kluang is 60 miles north of Singapore island.)

Correspondents with the Australians, who have been given the task of mopping up infiltrations in the Muar area, said the Japanese flanking effort there was due to the check they received in a frontal clash with the Australians last

Eden Says Typhus On Increase Among Germans in Russia

LONDON, Jan. 21 (AP)—Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden told the House of Commons today there has been "a marked increase of typhus on the German side of the Russian front and in eastern and southeastern Europe."

"No statistics as to the number of cases can be obtained, however," Eden added. "The German authorities, from motives which will be understood, prefer to keep these figures secret."

MOZHAISK'S FALL WORST NAZI DEFEAT

By the Associated Press

Russia celebrated her greatest victory of the war today as the Red armies drove six miles beyond fallen Mozhaisk, 57 miles west of Moscow, in pursuit of Adolf Hitler's battered invaders along the Napoleonic road of retreat to Smolensk.

London military quarters estimated 200,000 Germans had been forced to withdraw toward the narrow Vyazma Gap as a result of Mozhaisk's capture.

Viazma is about halfway between Moscow and Smolensk.

The Russian army now has hundreds of thousands of fresh reserves ready to press forward in a giant offensive along the entire line from Leningrad south to the Black Sea, Soviet sources in London declared today.

These sources saw the fall of Mozhaisk as the signal for a "titanic continuation of the battle," which they predicted would develop some time before March.

FIRST OF AEF ON WAY TO WAR ZONES

U. S. Official

The vanguard of new AEF's were en route to far flung battle lines or already in action today.

The size of the troops' movements and their destinations in various parts of the world were military secrets. The same held true for the supplies that went with them.

But together they represented a trickle, at least, of the great flood to come, and the news enheartened the other united nations, particularly the Dutch and Chinese.

The first official disclosure that the "Yanks are coming" originated with the commander-in-chief himself, Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Acknowledging that reinforcements and supplies were being sent to the South Pacific war zone, the President reported excellent progress in this exacting operation to his press conference yesterday.

The President's remarks on the Pacific theater were in response to a specific question, but earlier the Chief Executive assured reporters that the United States already was contributing to the war against the Axis in every part of the earth. Omitting any details that would be of value to the enemy, he added that staff talks were covering the offensive and defensive, all the continents and seas, war supplies, and the movements of things, ships and human beings from one part of the world to another.

Official confirmation that fresh American troops were battle-bound engendered no false optimism or expectations of major victories overnight in a capital settling down for a long, hard war.

Adopting guerilla tactics of the Spanish-American War, a small band of American-Philippine troops successfully made a surprise raid on a Japanese-held airdrome in northern Luzon.

The Americans forced the enemy to "flee in confusion leaving 110 dead on the field," the War Department added in its announcement today.

The guerilla maneuver—described by the department as "brilliant"—occurred at Tuguegarao in Cagayan province at the northeastern end of the island and put 300 of the enemy to rout, with American-Philippine losses described as "very light."

It was the first guerilla warfare to be reported by the War Department since the Japanese invaded the islands six weeks ago.

The department said that while this raid was occurring, Gen. Douglas MacArthur's main force in North Bataan repelled the invaders in "savage fighting."

The Japanese frontal assault in this area bogged down again when the invaders were driven back after an effort to crash MacArthur's forces at the center.

First successes of the Japanese made by infiltration drives were nullified in the savage fighting, and the Nipponese were forced not only to surrender the ground they had gained in their initial rush but also were driven back to the extent that Gen. MacArthur "re-established" lines which previously had been penetrated.

The War Department described enemy losses in this action as "very heavy." American and Philippine casualties were "relatively moderate," even in the counter-attack which enabled them to retake positions they had occupied before the Jap offensive was launched.

Successes of the American and Filipino defenses repelled for a third time Japan's "all-out" effort to end resistance in the islands.

Navy Renames 4 Boston Ships

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 (AP)—Secretary Knox reported today approval of names of five vessels newly acquired by the Navy from civilian owners.

Four of the craft, apparently all small ships although tonnages were not given, were acquired from General Seafoods Corp., Boston, and were known originally as the Wave, Gale, Tide and Ocean. These ships, all of which are to be used as minesweepers, have been renamed respectively the Eagle, Hawk, Ibis and Merganser.

NEW GUINEA KEY PORTS BLASTED

Official News

Melbourne, Australia

Jan. 21 (AP)

Japanese bombers raided the key ports of eastern New Guinea and the Bismarck archipelago for hours today in strength which the Australian air command said suggested that "major attacks in this area can be expected."

Principal targets of the raiders were Kavieng, at the north cape of New Ireland, where the Bismarck archipelago juts closest to the Japanese-mandated Caroline islands, and the east coast New Guinea cities of Madang, Salamaua, Bulolo and Lae.

Prime Minister Curtin said the mass attacks showed the peril to Australia was "nearer, clearer and deadlier than ever."

"Anybody in Australia who fails to perceive the immediate menace to Australia which this attack constitutes, must be lost to all reality."

W. C. Wurth, former chairman of the New South Wales public service board, was appointed director-general of manpower, heading an organization under which every man, woman and child will be enrolled for war service of some kind.

More than 50 Japanese bombers and fighters were observed flying in the direction of Salamaua, south of Madang, and shortly after noon a small group of raiders attacked Salamaua airdrome.

(This evidently was an extension of operations instituted yesterday against Australian-mandated New Britain island. The Bismarck archipelago links New Britain and New Guinea.)

Magnificent Lady

Carole Lombard's Amazing Life Story

By CHARLES T. BURNS

"I have worked hard for what success I have and I simply cannot bear to give it up."

Carole Lombard, still the magnificent, beautiful lady William Powell fell in love with, explained

Clark Gable

"Junior") and I agreed not to talk.

"Look at it like this... he's 42 and has lived his life. I'm only 24 and I'm just beginning to live. That tells a lot of story and all this talk about quarrels and such are just not true."

REMAIN FRIENDS

The crackup didn't change Carole's regard for the genial and polished Powell. Long after their two-year marriage ended, the fascinating actress lightly remarked:

"Damn it, I must like the man or I wouldn't have married him in the first place!"

"Now that we're divorced, we're still the best of friends... we're both civilized people." And, if any proof was necessary, Powell and Carole could point to the billing in "My Man Godfrey," filmed long after the divorce. In that hilarious comedy, the couple were co-starred and fellow-workers were amazed at their light-hearted friendship.

Bill's feelings were expressed vividly when he was told of Carole's tragic death while on the patriotic mission for the country she loved:

"I am so unbelievably shocked that I don't know what to say. Clark Gable and Carole's brothers have my deepest sympathy."

With the blasting of the marriage that Carole thought was to be the fulfillment of her dreams, she plunged into the career she had chosen even over marriage.

Powell was behind her but the imprint of his teachings were still upon her.

NO. 1 FASHION PLATE

In the years that followed, Carole became, first, one of the best-dressed women in Hollywood and later, THE best-dressed.

No one dressed so well or in such good taste. She wore lovely, simple things with the air of an empress... and her little home in the hills was a story-book house.

But Carole's "great lady" appearance belied the mischievous spirit hidden beneath her suave exterior. The regal carriage and dignified manners were shelved in a twinkling when the opportunity for fun presented itself.

It was during this period that she established the reputation which lasted right up until her untimely death. She became a gay, carefree, devil-may-care mixx who could think up side-splitting stunts quicker than her friends could protect themselves from her jokes. Like the time she was playing "follow-the-leader" at a Hollywood party with Carole as leader.

The de-bunking instinct, so strong in Carole, came bursting to the fore when she saw, in the line, her boss. He was a dignified leader in the movie industry, many times a

Mixer Crushes Baker to Death

Drawn bodily into a huge bakery mixing bowl, Arthur Porcaro, 19, of Broadway, Everett, was crushed to death today at Sala's Bakery. Bow st., Everett, while a rescue squad fought frantically to free him and a priest administered last rites of the Catholic Church.

Porcaro was cleaning dough from the whirling blades of the big mixer when they caught on his clothing and drew him in head first.

Hearing his screams, fellow employees tried to wrestle him free. Another baker, Joseph De-Phillip of Main st., Everett shut off the motor.

Deputy Fire Chief Humphrey Sheehan, giving up hope of rescuing the youthful baker, ordered the big kettle dismantled to free the body.

Blimps Aid in Hunt For Subs Off Coast

Special Dispatch to the Boston Evening American
WASHINGTON, Jan. 21—Striking swift counter-blows against enemy submarines now operating off the East coast, the Navy indicated today that it had called on its newly-formed Blimp Squadron to aid in the search for the marauders.

In its latest communique the Navy declared that "strong counter measures are being taken by the east coastal command." And indications were that the Navy craft operating out of bases along the Atlantic seaboard from Cape Hatteras to Newfoundland had already accounted for one of the submarines and possibly more.

In keeping with the Navy's policy of not announcing the destruction of enemy subs, however, word of the U. S. action was kept in general terms.

OTHER ATTACKS

During the past week four ships of the United Nations are known to have been attacked off the coast by enemy undersea craft and the Navy has indicated that other attacks have been reported to Washington.

So far the enemy has concentrated attacks on tankers plying the sea lanes between the oil fields of Texas and the industrial areas of the Northeast.

Particular emphasis was given to this concentration when officers of the tanker Allen Jackson reported that it had been picked out of a group of six vessels for attack by the enemy craft.

Some observers here were of the opinion that the Nazi raiders believe that oil—much of which is trans-shipped to England—is the most vital commodity being carried along our coast.

FLEET NOT IDEAL

Use of the Navy's lighter-than-air craft in tracking down the "rattlesnakes" also was indicated by the President in his press conference.

The President answered a question as to the advisability of constructing pipelines by saying that the construction of more blimps was the answer.

The great sausage like balloons cover thousands of miles of ocean on reconnaissance and are used to point out the presence of enemy craft to our surface craft.

It was indicated that although no announcement has been made as to action taken by our Navy fleet of the east coastal command is not idle.

RAYMOND L. WOODWARD
Four-Week Reprieve

WOODWARD BOY WINS REPRIEVE

Raymond Woodward, Jr., 16-year-old confessed slayer of a 15-year-old Reading girl, slated to die in the electric chair early Monday morning, today was granted a four-week reprieve to Feb. 22 by Gov. Saltonstall.

The Governor told the executive council he wanted time to study thoroughly reports submitted by Dist. Atty. Robert F. Bradford of Middlesex County, Commr. of Correction Arthur T. Lyman and Atty. Gen. Robert T. Bushnell.

Bushnell's report and recommendations in the sensational case, the Governor said, will be submitted later this week.

"I feel, also, a duty to the council to provide sufficient time for them to consider the petition for commutation carefully, in the event my investigation indicates the necessity of recommending further action to the council," the Governor said.

Woodward was sentenced to die for the brutal murder of Constance Shipp, a Reading schoolgirl. The state parole board recently completed hearings on a petition that the boy's death sentence be commuted to life imprisonment in view of his youth.

Scarlet Fever Hits 3 Galvins

Three of the six young daughters of William J. Galvin, former president of the Boston City Council, are scarlet fever patients in the South Department at Boston City Hospital, it was learned today.

The girls, Marilyn, 8; Catherine, 6, and Carolyn, 5, are reported resting comfortably.

Galvin's other daughters, Ellen, 7; Mary, 3½; and Nancy, 2, are being kept at their home in Monument st., Charlestown, and so far have not been affected by the disease.

Molotov Expected To Visit London

LONDON, Jan. 21 (AP)—Russia's foreign commissar, Vyacheslav M. Molotov, may come to London soon to repay the Moscow visit of Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, the well-informed diplomatic correspondent of the Yorkshire Post wrote today.

Eden was said to have invited Molotov while on his recent stay in Russia. The Post said Molotov "no doubt will bring with him high Russian army, navy and air force advisors."

RIVAL OF MRS. BARBER FACES HER AT TRIAL

The two leading women in the career of Max "Kid" Hessel, slain ex-convict and one-time pugilist, faced each other across the witness stand today in Suffolk Superior Court, where one is on trial for her life.

Mrs. Hazel Barber, attractive 46-year-old Brighton widow, charged with shooting Hessel to death in a "last kiss" rendezvous last May 7, heard her rival for the slain man's love declare she had "five dates" with him in two weeks before his death.

Younger but no more attractive than Mrs. Barber, Miss Mae Goldberg, 36-year-old Waltham department store clerk, testified she met Hessel on a blind date five years ago, and had kept company with him for the past three years.

In contrast to Mrs. Barber, who had regained the calm lost when her confession to police was read yesterday, Miss Goldberg was visibly shaken and only after she was given a glass of water could she begin her testimony.

TELLS OF DINNER DATE

Mrs. Barber kept her eyes averted from the witness, glancing at her but once, and that when she left the stand.

On the evening before Hessel was killed, Miss Goldberg said she met him at 5 o'clock and that they went to a hotel for dinner. After that they went to the Fellowship Motors, where he worked, and from there to a restaurant in Brighton ave., Allston.

Around 10 o'clock, Hessel drove her home to Waltham—and that was the last she saw of him alive. He was shot to death outside his Egmont rd., Brighton, apartment at 1 a. m. the next morning.

Detective William Philbrick of police headquarters, followed Miss Goldberg to the stand and testified he found the alleged murder gun—a .38 caliber revolver—where he was told he would by the defendant herself—behind a billboard in Lincoln st., Brighton.

Good Housekeeping Bureau Head Named

Dr. Carl P. Sherwin, vice-president of the New York Academy of Science and a practicing physician since 1925, has been appointed director of the Good Housekeeping Bureau, Good Housekeeping Magazine announced today.

Dr. Sherwin will assume complete charge of the bureau, and his appointment assures a continuance of the policies adopted by the late Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, under whose direction the bureau has exerted such a positive influence on the national health.

Wm. Dudley Pelley Given Prison Term

ASHEVILLE, N. C., Jan. 21 (AP)—William Dudley Pelley, leader of the Silver Shirts of America, was sentenced by Superior Court Judge F. Don Phillips to serve two to three years in prison upon conviction in 1935 of violation of North Carolina security laws. Prayer for judgment had been continued when he was convicted in 1935.

Judge Phillips also directed that a sentence of one to two years, pronounced in 1935 by Judge Wilson Warlick and suspended upon conditions of good behavior, be placed into effect, the two sentences to run concurrently.

Rally Spurs Sale For Birthday Ball

"The best dollar value in the land short of defense stamps," said U. S. Atty. Edmund J. Brandon today, is a ticket to the Birthday Ball at the Boston Garden, Jan. 30.

The federal law enforcement officer who is chairman of the Birthday Ball committee addressed a noon day rally at 279 Washington st. held to promote the sale of tickets in the drive against infantile paralysis.

"Few realize," said Brandon, "the terrific toll taken by that dread disease among children and men and women, but the Selective Service Act, calling men for registration, uncovered appalling figures of men unfit for service because at some time in their lives they had infantile paralysis."

"Money is needed to rehabilitate these men as well as the women and children—and money is needed to stamp out the disease. Much has been done—aided by Birthday Balls throughout the country, but unfortunately there still remains much to be done. A ticket to the Birthday Ball helps a worthy charity and it admits to the biggest and best night of entertainment in Boston," he added.

Argentina Stand Dims Parley Hope

By JOHN P. MCKNIGHT

RIO DE JANEIRO, Jan. 21 (AP)—Prospects that the Pan-American conference might approve unanimously an immediate rupture of relations with the Axis powers faded today following an assertion by Argentina's acting president, Ramon S. Castillo, that his government could not modify its attitude toward the proposal.

Castillo's assertion, made last night in Buenos Aires, was generally accepted here as meaning that Argentina had definitely decided against joining the other American nations—at least for the present—in forming a solid anti-Axis front.

Of the 20 other republics represented here, Chile is the only one whose stand on a proposed joint break with the Axis—scheduled for debate tomorrow—is in doubt.

NO COMPROMISE HINT

Castillo's statement surprised observers, for only yesterday there were reports that Argentina, long regarded as the chief obstacle to unanimous action by the conference, was being won to the majority view.

There was no hint now, however, of compromise.

Proponents of the anti-Axis declaration indicated they were ready to go ahead regardless of Argentina's attitude, and there were reports one sub-committee member had proposed that Argentina or any other nation opposing the measure be ousted from the Pan American Union.

Some hope still existed that Argentina, while apparently unwilling to subscribe to an immediate break with the Axis, might do so when she feels the time is ripe.

HOPE STILL HELD

Dr. Eduardo Anze Matienzo, Bolivian Foreign Minister in charge of reporting out the resolution for debate, said last night he had not abandoned hope that unanimity of the 21 American republics ultimately would be achieved.

In his statement in Buenos Aires, Castillo declared that, thus far Argentina had not taken from her position of neutrality toward all warring nations except by treating the United States as a non-belligerent and thus permitting American warships the use of her ports.

"Our position is final," Castillo added. "It will not undergo any change."

He protested, however, that Argentina's attitude toward the Pan American conference had wrongly been interpreted as a refusal to collaborate with the other American nations.

3 LYNN FIRE SURVIVORS DYING, STATE'S PROBE SPEEDED UP

With three survivors in a critical condition but fighting to retain life, a procession of witnesses passed slowly today before State Fire Marshal Stephen C. Gmy, holding inquest into Lynn's Melvin Hall apartment house holocaust in which 13 perished.

Today was the second day of the inquest at Lynn's fire headquarters in Broad st., hardly around the corner from yesterday's fatal fire, for which an attempt is being made to fix responsibility.

OFFICIALS QUIZZED

Police and fire officials from Lynn and the various cities and towns called upon for aid in battling the roaring flames were questioned today by Marshal Garrity as to their observations when arriving at the scene and during the fire-fighting.

LAUDS FIREMEN

At the same time, Fire Chief Joseph E. Scanlon of Lynn, emphatic in his praises for his own and other firemen who worked so valiantly to have lives, declared that there should be stricter regulations against fire.

He said that laws should be passed requiring the installation of automatic sprinklers in basements and hallways of apartment buildings, hotels and in all public structures and requiring that apartment buildings have watchmen on duty between sunset and sunrise.

Last Nov. 4 the Melvin Hall apartment building was inspected, he revealed, and it was all right so far as the law went. But on other occasions firemen have found hallways cluttered up there with rubbish and baby carriages, he said, and the hallways were ordered cleared.

The fire chief and police officials declared today that they believe no more bodies are in the ruins—unless someone who might have been a visitor in an occupant's apartment had perished.

Fire broke out again today in the ruins, a charred mattress on the wrecked third floor giving off a few flickers of flame. The fireman on watch called a ladder truck and the blaze was speedily extinguished.

Inspectors of city and State sped into action on orders of Governor Saltonstall after preliminary investigation showed that the victims "never had a chance."

In addition to the three whose names are on the danger list, there were 22 others still at Lynn Hospital, most of them suffering from injuries received in life-seeking leaps from windows of the ancient apartment house.

An even greater toll was prevented when Deputy Fire Chief James J. O'Neill ordered dozens of his men from the ruins just before two floors in the big apartment block collapsed in showers of brick and timbers.

Meanwhile, the city rang with tales of heroism and tragic stories of those who lost their lives in sidewalk leaps which missed the life nets.

REPORT TO GOVERNOR

Fire Marshal Garrity was grimly silent as he went about his task, declaring only that his findings would be given to Governor Saltonstall—"as soon as the cause could be determined."

From Henry Anderson, 46-year-old janitor of the fire-swept building, today came the opinion that the blaze started in the basement. But why and how it sped so rapidly up air shafts and hall-ways still was a matter to be determined by the fire experts. Anderson told investigators of being aroused by the roar of flames and racing barefooted through the building to sound an alarm to some 60 families.

NO REAR FIRE ESCAPES

It was glaringly apparent that there were no fire escapes in the rear of the building, but J. Wallace McDonald, Lynn building superintendent, reported that under the law such equipment was not necessary since the building had two means of egress.

Another who voiced an opinion prior to an official finding was Fire Chief Joseph E. Scanlon, who directed perhaps the greatest task the Lynn department ever has faced.

Chief Scanlon said that although the blaze occurred in the early morning when occupants were asleep most of those who died were fully clothed. He expressed the opinion that most of the victims did not realize the seriousness of the fire and waited to dress before fleeing their apartments.

PRIMATE OF ENGLAND
 RESIGNS POST

LONDON, Jan. 21 (AP)—The Archbishop of Canterbury, primate of all England and a central figure in forcing the abdication of King Edward VIII, announced today he would resign March 31 to make way for a younger man.

The resignation was announced from 10 Downing st., official residence of the Prime Minister. The announcement said the resignation had been approved by King George VI.

The archbishop, the Most Rev. and Right Hon. Cosmo Gordon Lang, was 77 years old last Oct. 31 and has been the Archbishop of Canterbury since July 27, 1928.

He said he was relinquishing his lofty Church office to make way for "some one younger in years and more vigorous in mind and spirit, who will be better able to prepare now for post-war plans . . ."

Archbishop of Canterbury

The top-ranking ecclesiastic, the Archbishop of Canterbury is the first peer of England next to the Royal family. The only other archbishop of the Church of England is the Archbishop of York.

It was considered likely in some British quarters that the present Archbishop of York, 69-year-old Dr. William Temple, would be named Dr. Lang's successor.

FOUGHT WALLY BRIDAL
 Following the abdication of Edward VIII, in which Dr. Lang was a leading fighter to keep England from having a king married to a divorcee, the American-born Wally Warfield, the venerable archbishop placed the crown on the head of King George VI, Edward's successor.

"When this war is over," he said, "great tasks of reconstruction must await the church as well as the state."

"Preparation for these tasks must begin now. It is clear the preparation must be the work of those who will have the responsibility of undertaking the tasks."

"For myself, after a lapse of a few years, I cannot hope to retain even such a measure of vigor as I may have now. There is an inevitable temptation to say of schemes and plans of church reform and reconstruction: 'They cannot come in my time. It is not therefore for me to give them careful responsible consideration.' This cannot be right."

Thus the archbishop was following the example of his immediate predecessor, Randall Thomas Davidson, who in 1928 at the age of 80 became the first Archbishop of Canterbury to resign since Augustine I held the office 13½ centuries ago.

CLEVER SMOKE SCREEN HID HITLER'S INVASION OF RUSSIA

By PIERRE J. HUSS
Copyright, 1942

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—One day a German woman of aristocratic family called me for tea. She was very much puzzled and showed me a letter from her husband, the titled Count von —, an officer of high standing in the German army.

The postmark was Tiflis, far down in Georgia, the town where Stalin came from in his youth. The German officer simply said in his letter not to worry and that all was well, although he might be out of touch for awhile.

Pierre J. Huss

Was there a deal on after all between Hitler and Stalin, as everybody seemed to think?

That was only the beginning, for in successive weeks after that letter it became a common tale to hear of German soldiers who wrote their families of the vastness of space they were marching through in Russia. In several cases, as I remember, those letters gave graphic descriptions of the dust and the food, the flies and the waterless stretches.

It seemed strange, this whole business of German troops in Russia. For instance, how come army censorship was letting the men get through such important information in letters to families or relatives and girl friends dead sure to gossip?

Was there a catch to it, or did I detect by instinct the fine hand of Goebbels in the background?

Late one night I was asked to step over to the Russian Embassy on Unter den Linden to have a chat. Delanov, the ambassador and a keyman in the Stalin regime through the Tass man who interpreted, swore up and down that not a single German soldier was inside Russia, except for the military attaches in Moscow.

CONVINCED OF NAZI RUSE

I went home convinced that Goebbels and his propaganda machine were hard at work spinning a new web of camouflage to hide something nasty going on behind the scenes. A plain military order to officers and soldiers could easily bring him to pen the desired letter, with the desired postmark stamped on in government printing shops. Military silence and secrecy would accomplish the rest.

There were other symptoms to back up the suspicion that Hitler was playing the old game again of throwing up a smoke screen to hide his real hand. He'd done that before his sweep to the Channel, preceding it for weeks at a time with scare propaganda of war about to burst over the Mediterranean. Obviously he desperately wanted us to believe that he and Stalin were marching in step, while preparing in actuality something entirely different on one spot of the map or another. The question was where. It came to my ears through the grapevine about that time that out in East Prussia and around Poland all prisoners of war were being removed from the camps there to places further west. Nearly a million men of all nationalities were being evacuated.

CAMPS BEING ENLARGED

The main camps, I heard about the same time, were also being enlarged to nearly twice the present capacity. Thousands of carpenters aided by war prisoners were working day and night building new camps, and by early May I heard that accommodations for three million war prisoners stood ready in the east.

Other evidence of big things brewing came progressively to our ears, like the ominous signs of a blood-soaked spring ahead. Thousands of horses throughout Germany and the occupied lands were quietly being commandeered into the army, recalled to their place in the sun. In the west there had been little use for them, as tanks took care of all needs. But on the long and roadless steppes in the east, they would be enormously useful.

I watched the long columns of them again clomping through the avenues of Berlin tall on tail and led by a few soldiers, as I had seen in the first days of war when Hitler blitzed Poland.

One day, outside the Adlon a clattering and scraping of steel on stone drew my attention.

NEW ARMORED WEAPON

A column of panzers was coming through the redlights, paying no attention to the police or the traffic. They were squat, square-nosed affairs, strikingly devoid of the usual round turret. A formidable new type, obviously, with something like a three-inch cannon projecting from the flat-topped center.

The tanks must have weighed about 20 tons each and anybody could see they were built to take it on the rough through walls and wood. A total switch in design from those used out west against the British and French.

HITLER
Pulled 'Sneak' on Reds

Back in my office on the fourth floor of Dorotheenstrasse, I had troubles of my own. The military was pulling in men for service at terrific pace, taking peglegs and hunchbacks in the rush.

Like all American press outfits in Berlin, the office routine was handled by seasoned Germans who worked for us anywhere from fifteen to twenty years.

At the start of war the names of every one of them came up for military service, like those of millions of other Germans. I rushed around to Wilhelmstrasse and in due time secured exemptions on the grounds that they were doing highly specialized work and that their drafting into the army would cripple an American news agency.

In early January the military refused to hear of exemptions. The American situation by that time was of no help and so I lost two of our men. Three months later I sat in my office and faced the prospect of losing two or more of the staff. It looked bad, and all around town the same story could be heard. Even skilled men in war factories were being placed into active service.

Everything pointed to an unprecedented move afoot, calling for millions of new men. And yet the Nazis refused to change the tune on Russia, doggedly maintaining silence on all questions in that connection.

Tomorrow Huss describes the climax of Hitler's game of double-crossing.

Lawyers on Trial In Heirs' Racket

WORCESTER, Jan. 21.—Testimony that sums were drawn methodically from unclaimed estates of deceased persons was offered today by George L. Emery, Worcester bank official, at the trial of three Boston lawyers and another Boston man in the "missing heirs racket" cases.

Attys. Philip A. Aronson, Nathan Shapiro and Charles L. Perriello, also Henry Perriello, brother of Charles, are charged with conspiracy and larceny of $2000 from three estates.

Atty. Francis D. Smith of Halifax, N. S., testified his signature and legal seal on a paper granting Aronson power of attorney to draw money from the estate of Eva Dujonis were forgeries.

Allston Holdup Pair Hunted

Using descriptions furnished by Mrs. Edith Girard, 24, who walked into the midst of a holdup near her home, police searched today for two young gunmen responsible for the $250 robbery of a grocery store in Allston st., Allston.

The pair had forced the proprietor, Max Goldfarb, 50, and his partner, Max Luvensky, 59, into a rear room after seizing their money and looting the cash register.

At that moment the bandits saw Mrs. Girard, who lives in Kelton st., nearby, approaching. They snatched out without harming her and were gone when the two storekeepers rushed from the rear room.

Mme. Rubinstein Eases Cosmetic Supply Fears

By ANNICE BRINK
There's the same kind of hand-on-a-fevered-brow reassurance in the words of Helena Rubinstein on the "Cosmetic Outlook for the Duration" that's been made so famous in the presidential radio talks.

She flew to Boston today to discuss with her salon staff on Newbury st. new measures and services to enable the women of this city to fit their beauty and exercise routines into their busy defense schedules.

She was bombarded with questions by the beauty editors who breakfasted with her at the Ritz, and she declared unequivocally that American women can stay beautiful "for the duration."

"Everything you've heard about the unslaked demand for lipsticks in Britain," she declared, "is absolutely true. 'It isn't that there isn't enough money to purchase lip rouge, just that there is practically none to be had. I sent over quite a few as a gift to a service organization, and I vow that the long cables of heartfelt thanks that came to me cost more than the lipsticks themselves!"

"I'm probably one of the few women in existence who would reach for and treasure another cosmetic instead of a lipstick, if the supply were cut dead or I had to retire to an air raid shelter. I'd grab for my mascara."

"But that's not generally true, so my best advice to those of you who will do some 'preparing' for a shortage is to buy all the lipsticks you can. Be sure you have sufficient lipstick containers on hand, to make up for losses or breakage. We'll always turn out refills for you. Didn't I say you could stay beautiful for the duration? But as to containers, the guarantee is not as cheerful."

Among her best advice is that you decide which is the one specialized corrective cream "to which will best keep up your smile, help keep your husband, and keep you young. Then really stock up on this ONE. Don't hoard hysterically."

KOHLER NIGHT CORN SALVE

U. S. AIR CORPS COLONEL ACQUITTED

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 21 (AP).—Col. H. Kress Muhlenberg was found innocent today at a general court martial of charges he wrongly criticized distribution of combat planes outside of the United States and its insular possessions.

After 49 minute of deliberation, the court martial called Col. Muhlenberg, retiring Air Corps officer and Court President Col. Edgar A. Fry announced:

"The court finds you not guilty on all charges and specifications."

The gray-haired, 55-year-old officer was charged with violating two articles of war after a public speech here Dec. 17.

This veteran of 38 years in the Army was the first high-ranking officer to be called by the Army before a court-martial since the United States declared war on the Axis powers.

The court's decision now goes to Maj.-Gen. Daniel Van Voorhis of the Fifth Corps Area for review, then to the War Department in Washington for confirmation.

Col. Muhlenberg, top ranking command pilot, who in 1937-38 was in charge of Hickam Field, Hawaii, was accused of wrongly discussing distribution of warplanes to Axis foes under the Lend-Lease Act and of public political discussions in violation of orders. He denied the charges which originated from a speech he made before the Curtis Flying Club here Dec. 17-18 days after the attack on Pearl Harbor.

Col. Muhlenberg personally denied any intent to criticize. He said he hoped in his address "to promote the interests of the military service, especially the air corps."

10 TRUMAN REPORT LAYS STRIKES TO HIGH PAY, HIGH PROFITS

By COLE E. MORGAN

Special to the Boston Evening American
WASHINGTON, Jan. 21—No question exists in the minds of members of the special committee of the Senate headed by Sen. Harry S. Truman, Democrat, of Missouri, to investigate the national defense program, of the adverse effect labor disturbances in defense industries have had on hindering all-out maximum war production.

TO HELP
relieve COLDS

FATHER
JOHN'S MEDICINE

Recommended by U.S. Pat. Office

WORKS 2 WAYS

While helping your cold, it also aids in building strong, sturdy bodies. It is rich in the essential vitamins A and D which are needed to fight colds. Its use for 85 years is convincing—it must have merit.

THEY:

"There is no question but what the defense program has been very seriously handicapped by reason of strikes and threatened strikes, and furthermore that many of such strikes ought not to have taken place.

BLAME BOTH SIDES

"Labor as well as industry, must assume responsibility for the meager production of defense articles. Both labor and industry have been too much concerned with their own interests and too little concerned with the national welfare. Larger wages and profits will be of no use to either labor or industry if the war is lost.

The committee believes that many of the strikes for wage increases were inspired by nothing but the tremendous profits being reported by companies having defense contracts.

"In addition, the labor situation was aggravated by the cleavage of labor into two hostile camps, the American Federation of Labor and the Congress of Industrial Organizations, together with several other important but relatively small independent labor groups which could not become a part of either of the two major organizations.

GIVES INCENTIVE

"This placed labor leaders in competition with each other and created a constant incentive to

SEN. HARRY S. TRUMAN
Hits Labor, Industry

strikes or threatened strikes in order to show the members of each organization that more was being obtained from them than was being obtained by the other major organization.

"The defense program has repeatedly suffered because of contracts and agreements made by the representatives of the American Federation of Labor and the Congress of Industrial Organizations were not accepted and adhered to by their locals. The committee was greatly disappointed when they failed to correct such 'defects' in their national conventions.

Concerning the soft-coal strike the report pointed out that it was not until after negotiations initiated by the labor department and the National Labor Relations Board had broken down that the committee began its inquiry.

The report said:

SHUTDOWN FEARED

"Witnesses from the War and Navy Departments stressed the very serious effect of the strike upon the defense program and gave facts indicating that specified plants and industries necessary to the defense program would have to shut down unless the strike could be settled at once. Representatives of the Northern and Southern operators and of the mine workers were asked to explain the specific issues in the strike and their position with respect thereto.

"During the course of the hearings the chairman of the committee was informed by the Secretary of Commerce that he believed that it might be possible for him to effect a settlement, and the committee adjourned its hearing to afford a full opportunity for him to do so.

"During such adjournment the committee met in executive session and concluded that on the next day it would recommend the following action if no settlement had been reached:

URGE RESUMPTION

"1—All mining operations should immediately be resumed.

"2—The provisions of the proposed contract for the appointment of miners' committees to make inspections for safety purposes, the abolition of the reject policy, and the 10-day vacation, already agreed to by the northern operators, should immediately be agreed to by the southern operators. Any other provisions of the proposed contract, other than wages, as to which immediate agreement was not possible, should be submitted to arbitration.

"3—The question of the necessity for continuing the wage differential should be submitted to arbitration, and pending the results of arbitration, the basic inside day labor rate should be increased in the North and South alike by the sum of $1.

HIT SHIPPING STRIKE

"4—Arbitration should be commenced immediately with the understanding that testimony should be completed and a decision rendered by the arbitrators by June 1, 1942.

"The committee did not specifically make these recommendations because a settlement was agreed to during the day.

Concerning the committee inquiry into the West Coast shipbuilding strike and its effect upon the shipbuilding program of the maritime commission and the Navy, the report said:

"The seriousness of that strike and the lack of justification therefor were testified to by Adm. Land, chairman of the maritime commission; Mr. Ralph Bard, assistant secretary of the Navy; Mr. Morris Cooke, chairman of the shipbuilding stabilization committee of the office of production management; and Mr. Angelo Rossi, the mayor of San Francisco.

"The strike was in direct opposition to the President's proclamation of an unlimited emergency in which he had said that 'the actual production and transportation of the machinery of defense must not be interrupted by disputes between capital and capital, labor and labor, or capital and labor.'

OPPOSES STRIKE

"The bulk of the employees involved in the strike were affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, for which Mr. William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor spoke. In testifying, Mr. Green went into the matter in detail but said in effect:

"We must disavow the action of the machinists in the outlaw strike, in which they are engaged. Their action cannot be approved or countenanced by the American Federation of Labor.

"Mr. John Green, president of the Industrial Union of Marine and Shipbuilding Workers of America, affiliated with the Congress of Industrial Organizations, likewise took the position that the strike was an outlaw strike.

"The strike was finally settled on June 30, 1941, after the Bethlehem Steel Co. signed the stabilization agreement, granting a closed shop where none had ever existed before. The machinists did not gain their demands for $115 per hour with double pay for overtime, but accepted the $112 rate and the time-and-one-half overtime provision as provided by zone standards. The National Defense Mediation Board had recommended on June 18 that Bethlehem Steel Co. grant a closed shop, because other West coast shipyards had previously agreed to a closed shop.

Thus, the strikers lost on the issue for which they professed to be striking and won on the issue of the closed shop.

BID CALLED LOW

"This made a precedent that caused difficulty when the captive coal-mine strike threatened to interfere with steel production, and the National Defense Mediation Board made a similar decision 'here, after having first proclaimed that the exigencies of defense should not be used to obtain a closed shop.'

The controversy over the low bid of the Currier Lumber Co., of Detroit, Mich., and the Mutual Home Ownership Division of the Federal Work Agency to construct 300 houses for defense workers at

Wayne, Mich., was reviewed at length by the committee, which stated in its report:

"The bid was low by more than $200,000—more than $600 a house.

"Mr. Sidney Hillman, associate director of the Office of Production Management, and in charge of its labor division, testified before the committee that he took upon himself the responsibility of telephoning Mr. John M. Carmody, at that time federal works administrator, advising him not to award the contract to the lowest bidder because Mr. Patrick J. Currier employed Congress of Industrial Organizations labor and did not employ American Federation of Labor labor, and because Mr. Hillman feared labor trouble from irresponsible members of the American Federation of Labor.

"Mr. Hillman was asked whether his advice was in any way based on doubt as to the ability of the Currier Lumber Co. to construct the 300 houses. He replied that it was not, that he was not interested in that question, and that he had no responsibility which required him to investigate that phase of the controversy. He had never met Mr. Currier, and admitted that he had never seen the proposed contract.

CARMODY 'DERELICT'

"The committee believes that Mr. Carmody was derelict in his duty for failing to decide this matter after he had expressly reserved the power of decision to himself. It constitutes an exception to his record for prompt decisions.

"The matter has still not been decided because Mr. Carmody's successor, Mr. Philip E. Fleming, has been in ill health and no one else desires to assume the responsibility for the decision. When Mr. Fleming is able to resume his duties, the committee expects him to decide this matter and from time to time will check to see if it has been decided."

Industry, Labor Face Curb on War Profits

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 (AP)—Far-reaching legislation to compel "special interest" groups to submit accountings of their funds and to limit profits on defense work was prepared today to meet the House Naval Committee's blunt criticism of practices it declared were current.

Chairman Vinson (D.) of Georgia said he would introduce immediately a bill to require "big Chambers of Commerce, labor unions and all special interest groups" to report to a federal agency their assets, liabilities, contributions and expenditures.

At the same time, Vinson said he was working on a second bill designed to prevent the "excessive and unconscionable" profits which the committee declared some corporations had made on naval contracts.

The naval committee sent a voluminous report to the House yesterday summarizing its investigation of 19,086 naval contracts. The heavily-documented report made these observations:

Industry

Manufacturers as a whole should not be criticized, but in view of the fact that many made profits far above 7 per cent—the highest was 247 per cent on a small order—"the necessity is clearly indicated for measures to be taken to prevent excessive and unconscionable profits."

Labor

"Tremendous financial gains" by labor organizations represented "an astounding picture of concentration of wealth" which should lead to union registration. Congress should enact legislation to prevent interference with the war program by strikes and other work stoppages.

(Both of these provisions are in a House-approved bill passed before the United States went to war and which is pending in the Senate.)

Contracts

Negotiated cost-plus-fixed-fee contracts surveyed showed an average profit of 26 per cent, compared with 6.2 per cent on competitive bids.

"Results to date indicate that the cost-plus-fixed-fee contract minimizes the possibility of profiteering where a close check is kept upon costs."

Administrative

Navy officials should more carefully consider the records of prospective contractors, should study British and Canadian procurement methods, should avoid "a great deal of waste and excessive profits" because cost-accounting methods are not uniform and should insure adequate protection for naval plants.

China Asks U. S., Britain For Convoys

CHUNGKING, China, Jan. 21 (AP)—The Chinese press appealed today to the United States and Britain to institute a convoy system to rush huge quantities of war materials into China and also to extend credits to the Chungking government to facilitate its war effort.

At the same time an apparently inspired article appeared, declaring statements by American leaders in recent days had dispelled Chinese fears that the United States might not put forth her best effort in the Pacific, in order to concentrate on smothering Germany.

"American statesmen apparently see eye-to-eye with Chinese leaders that no effort should be spared to inflict heavy losses on the Japanese navy in order to hasten Japan's total defeat," the article said.

(Chinese quarters previously had been critical of an address by U. S. Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox in which he asserted that Adolf Hitler was America's main enemy.)

Storms in Libya Delay British

CAIRO, Egypt, Jan. 21 (AP)—The worst sand and rain storms seen in Libya in 10 years are hampering the movements of British land and air forces attempting to strike at Gen. Erwin Rommel's Axis forces along the Gulf of Sirte, British headquarters said today.

As a result, much of the region has been rendered impassable, a Communiqué said, and the Axis forces have taken the opportunity to mine heavily the restricted areas over which the British might press the advance.

Nelson Orders Auto Output Halted Feb. 1

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 (AP)—The automobile industry has been commanded by Donald M. Nelson to halt the $10,000,000-a-day clink of its assembly lines by Feb. 1 and then turn its full machine power into manufacture of weapons.

The war production director announced this drastic order last night. It was the first he had issued since his appointment January 13, and it gave industry a pungent forecast of the methods by which he means to get all-out war production.

Nelson disclosed that President Roosevelt had approved his plans for revamping and streamlining the entire federal setup concerned with war production and said details of the plans would be made public today.

The automobile order prohibits all manufacture of passenger cars and light trucks after midnight Jan. 31—including even vehicles for Army, Navy, or lend-lease purposes.

After Jan. 31, it was indicated, the automobile industry's future would be placed in the hands of Ernest Kanzler, long-time associate of Henry Ford and one-time Ford production manager. He was said to be slated for the job of directing the industry's total conversion to production of armaments.

The automobile production ban means that passenger cars and light trucks needed by the armed services must be drawn in future from the stocks "frozen" Jan. 1 by OPM as a preliminary to government rationing.

12 DARING NAVAL EXPLOIT ADDS TO U. S. HERO ROLL

Washington, Jan. 21 (AP)

For a daring exploit brilliantly accomplished, the Navy wrote a new name on the roll of its war heroes today and added one more ship to Japanese losses for the Philippines invasion.

'Just Like Him,' Says Hero's Wife

NEW YORK, Jan. 21 (AP)—"I expected him to do a thing like that," Mrs. Hilda Alice Bulkeley said proudly today. "He's that kind of a man."

The small blonde 29-year-old wife of the Navy's newest hero was discussing the amazing feat of Lieut. John Duncan Bulkeley, 30, who in a tiny motor torpedo boat braved a rain of enemy fire to sink a 5000-ton Japanese vessel in Binanga bay in the Philippines.

"Yes," agreed the lieutenant's mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Bulkeley, "that's just like him."

But while Bulkeley may be a terror in a torpedo boat, he's just like any other father around his Long Island City home.

On the day the United States declared war against Japan, Mrs. Bulkeley received a letter from her husband in which he said:

"The situation is tense out here—and no fooling. Our decks are cleared."

And yet in that same letter, Bulkeley complaining of some trouble with his teeth, said he didn't want his 16-month-old daughter, Joan Isabel, to have to undergo a similar experience when she grew older.

"Joan must have lots of milk and calcium in her diet—and no candy. Give her natural sweets, such as honey," wrote the man who worried more about his daughter's teeth than about machine-gun bullets.

He asked about Bunky, his small white dog, and Jasper, the family's orange-and-white cat.—"Get an extra 15 cents worth of liver for Jasper as a Christmas present."

UNDER ENEMY FIRE

Bulkeley had eight seamen, as yet unidentified, to his crew, but the matter-of-fact Navy statement hardly hints at the nerve-racking perils of their mad dash. It reports merely that "this small boat carried out its difficult task while under fire of machine guns and three-inch shore batteries."

The greatest protection the men had was the speed of their powerful craft, whose 4200 horsepower engine is capable of producing a maximum of about 70 knots, or 84 miles an hour.

Besides speed, there was the element of surprise in the night—surprise increased by the fact that Binanga bay, tucked away inside Subic bay on Luzon island, is far from any known base of Allied operations in the Far East.

The Japanese might reasonably have expected American submarines in that vicinity but they apparently were not on guard against a lightning attack by a lone small boat.

That was the enemy's mistake, for American Navy men have turned such risky tricks before. During the Revolutionary War John Barry and some stout-hearted men in four small craft actually captured a British man-of-war and four supply ships in the Delaware river.

In the war with the Barbary pirates, Commodore Stephen Decatur and a little group of blue-jackets slipped into the pirate stronghold of Tripoli one black night in a native ketch and burned a frigate, which would have availed the enemy of superior power.

IRON CLAD COURAGE

Today's mightily powered naval motorboats are a far cry from Barry's frail craft and Decatur's borrowed ketch but now as then the story in such instances is essentially one of the iron courage of a few men willing to take the long chance to perform an important task.

What Lieut. Bulkeley's stab into Binanga bay accomplished in a strategic sense is yet to be disclosed. Some naval experts viewed bay lies near the embattled American position as an embarrassing action against the Japanese.

Other observers noted that the Ican Army's left flank on Balan peninsula and suggested the blow might have been struck primarily in support of the Army.

TOJO VOWS U. S. AND BRITAIN TO BE 'BROUGHT TO KNEES'

Enemy Report

Tokyo, Jan. 21

(Official Broadcast Recorded by AP)

Premier General Hideki Tojo told the Diet (Parliament) today that Japan, acting in close co-operation with Germany and Italy, planned "increasingly vigorous operations" in the Pacific and would go on fighting until the United States and Britain were "brought to their knees."

"Japan intends to strengthen further her solidarity with her allies in military, diplomatic, economic and various other spheres and to go forward toward the attainment of a common purpose," Tojo declared.

He asserted Japan would "gladly enable the Philippines to enjoy honor and independence" provided the Filipinos showed what he called a genuine willingness to collaborate in achieving common prosperity.

In reference to Australia and the Netherlands East Indies Tojo declared:

"If they continue their present attitude of resisting Japan we will show no mercy in crushing them." Domes said the premier made "virtually no mention of Japanese relations with the Soviet Union."

Earlier Foreign Minister Shigenori Tojo told the Diet that Japan was "paying close attention" to the Pan-American conference at Rio de Janeiro and said the government was prepared to maintain cordial relations with the South American nations "so long as they are not misled by American machinations and do not adopt a hostile or unfriendly attitude toward Japan."

(Tojo's statement was generally regarded as an attempt to influence the South American nations against joining in a declaration severing all relations with the Axis powers.)

"It is only the British-American design to dominate the whole world which Japan regards with hostility," Tojo added.

Navy Minister Vice-Admiral Shigetaro Sonoda, reviewing Japanese naval operations for the benefit of the Diet, repeated the claim that the United States aircraft tender Langley had been sunk Jan. 8 southwest of Johnston Island and that the aircraft carrier Lexington had been destroyed Jan. 12 west of Hawaii.

(The Japanese previously had reported the sinking of these vessels but Washington has dismissed various claims of sinkings or damage caused by the Japanese as "fishing expeditions" designed to elicit information concerning the whereabouts of U. S. ships.)

Jap 'Chute Troops Take Celebes Town

BATAVIA, N.E.I., Jan. 21 (AP)—The Dutch high command reported today that "according to reliable reports" Japanese forces have occupied all of Minabassa, the northeastern arm of the Island of Celebes, but "paid dearly for this conquest."

The invaders used parachute troops in their attack on the narrow peninsula, it was announced through Aneta, Netherlands news agency.

The general attack on Minabassa was said to have been preceded by a series of air raids directed chiefly at the airdromes. The parachute troops began to arrive at the same moment as the first landing of Japanese troops from the sea, and within two hours landings were being made in force in five or six places.

Japanese planes, a communique said, staged three bombing attacks yesterday—on Salawan, seaport for the town on the east coast of Sumatra; against a lightship in Malacca strait, near Medan, and on an airdrome in Dutch Borneo.

Three persons were reported killed and seven wounded in the raid on Salawan. The bombing and machine-gunning attack on the lightship, carried out by three planes, was said to have caused no damage.

Dutch planes also continued to assist in the defense of Singapore, carrying out a bombing raid over Malaya from which "some aircraft" were reported missing.

The Dutch announced they had "taken measures" to guard against any surprise attack on the oil center at Balikpapan, on the east coast of Borneo.

Today's communique revealed for the first time a submarine of the Indies fleet, which had put into Tarakan for repairs on the eve of the Japanese attack, had been able to reach the open sea and return safely to its base.

The communique acknowledged loss of a naval flying boat as the result of enemy action, but said the crew was safe.

week on the central front at Gemas.

The Japanese are inactive on the central front, it was reported, but it was admitted some of their patrols had been encountered along the road south of Gemas.

Warfare at the front was described as a 24-hour-a-day business, with the Japanese constantly attempting to slip through the lines, fell trees across roads, cut communications wires and snipe at Australian patrols and repair parties.

FIGHTING IS BITTER

Reports from the battle zone indicated the Japanese were applying heavy pressure on the entire front, but the danger that the invaders might be able to repeat their seaborne flanking tactics caused most concern here.

Bitter fighting raged all day yesterday along the narrow coastal strip between the mouth of the Muar river and Batu Bahat, some 31 miles to the south, with imperial troops attempting to mop up Japanese forces which already had gained a foothold.

Japanese planes flew low over the area, bombing and machine-gunning in an effort to clear a path for their troops trying to filter southward through the jungles to menace British supply lines.

On the east coast Japanese patrols succeeded in penetrating to Endau, about 75 miles from Singapore, but the pressure in this area was not so great as on the opposite side of the peninsula.

Britain Warns Malayan Situation Still Critical

LONDON, Jan. 21 (INS)—British military authorities declared today that the situation in Malaya "remains critical" and that menacing Japanese thrusts are developing.

Optimism which recently has crept into British newspapers, largely because of the arrival and activities of Australian forces at the Malayan front—is "not justified," the authorities said.

London military authorities declared it should be realized that "very dangerous" Japanese thrusts are developing in the Muar river area, about 90 miles north of Singapore, against British communications running north and south.

They added the Japanese are bringing strong aerial pressure to bear and are heavily attacking the road to the southeast from Muar. But it was understood in London the main British positions still are approximately 70 to 75 miles north of the great Far Eastern naval base.

Reds Celebrate At Mozhaik

Hitler's field headquarters acknowledged Soviet troops had broken through German lines on the upper Donets river—presumably in the fierce battle for the big Donets river steel city of Kharkov, Russia's "Pittsburgh" in the Ukraine.

GERMAN PEOPLE NOT TOLD—The high command asserted, however, that Nazi counter-attacks had thrown the Russians back. No hint of the defeat on the central (Moscow) front was given the German nation.

Tass, the official Soviet news agency, said the Germans suffered enormous losses in an attempt to obey Hitler's order to hold Mozhaik at all costs.

Tass said Red Army troops, storming into the city after smashing earth-and-armor forts 50 to 100 yards apart, found a scene of chaotic destruction and carnage. "The whole defense belt was dug with huge craters and littered with German bodies . . . Soviet foot soldiers moved relentlessly toward the center of the town, driving out or killing automatic riflemen in their hideouts . . . The dead piled up in cellars, attics and stairways and spilled through doorways . . ."

JUNGLE CITY GOAL OF JAPS IN BURMA

By DANIEL DELUCE

RANGOON, Burma, Jan. 20, Delayed (AP)—Joumein, ringed by the jungle and the sea at the entrance to the tide-swept Gulf of Martaban, today appeared to be the Japanese army's next objective in its attempted conquest of southern Burma.

There was a indication yet as to where the British and Burmese troops would meet to make a decisive stand against the enemy, which split the Tenasserim coast—Burma's "pearl" along the Western Main peninsula—by capturing Tavoy with a numerically superior force.

Moulmein, the head of the Tenasserim and, was endangered from two directions: From the Thai border, 70 miles to the east, and from Tavoy, 170 miles to the south, to which it is linked by combination railway and highway route.

Admittedly, the British army here abiding forged into an eventual offensive weapon, the Japanese strategy of piecemeal occupation of exped areas in southern Burma, posed the most difficult type of defense problem.

Japs Claim Gains Made In Burma Offensive

TOKYO, Jan. 21 (AP)—Domei, official Japanese news agency today claimed Japanese forces striking into lower Burma had made new gains in the south and were advancing eastward Moulmein.

A communique by the imperial headquarters said Japanese troops "annihilated" defense forces in a fight near Comander, 16 miles northeast of its captured port of Tavoy, last Saturday night.

Today's U. S. Communique

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 (AP)—

The text of the Army communique, No. 68, based on reports received up to 9:30 a. m. (E.S.T.), follows:

"1—Philippine theater: In particularly savage fighting on the Bataan peninsula, American and Philippine troops drove back the enemy and re-established lines which previously had been penetrated. The Japanese, by infiltration and frontal attacks near the center of the line, had gained some initial successes. Our troops then counter-attacked and all positions were retaken. Enemy losses were very heavy. Our casualties were relatively moderate.

"One of Gen. MacArthur's guerrilla bands operating in the Cagayan Valley in northern Luzon scored a brilliant local success in a surprise raid on a hostile airdrome at Tuguegarao. The Japanese were taken completely by surprise and fled in confusion, leaving 110 dead on the field. Approximately 300 others were put to flight. Our losses were very light.

"2—There is nothing to report from other areas."

millionaire, and just a little on the pompous side.

Impishly, Carole led the gay following a merry chase around the house and into the bathroom. Here, almost splashing with laughter, she filled the bathtub with water ... and WADED THROUGH IT.

BOSS SPLASHES ALONG

Behind her came the movie magnate, and although obviously reluctant, he splashed along after her.

"It was more fun," she laughed in telling friends. "You should have seen his face when he found he had to get his pretty pants all wet in the drink. He was wild, but how could he squawk?"

Being so popular Carole was fair game for gossip columns and rumors of engagements.

First it was George Raft. Then it was Gary Cooper, Gene Raymond and Russ Columbo, the band leader who was accidentally shot to death in 1934.

The affair Columbo was the nearest to the real thing of any of the reported engagements. Friends said Carole and Columbo were engaged and neither she nor Russ troubled to deny it.

There was little doubt in the sentimental film city that Columbo's death hit Carole very hard.

Through tears she told friends: "It's impossible to express how deeply shocked I am. You know, Russ was very dear to me."

PLUNGES INTO WORK

With the bounce her friends and fellow-workers had come to expect of her, Carole buried her deep feeling for Columbo in hard work and more pictures.

In 1934 she played opposite George Raft in "Bolero," Bing Crosby in "We're Not Dreaming," Gary Cooper in "Now and Forever," and John Barrymore in "Twentieth Century."

It was while working in "Twentieth Century" that she and Barrymore developed their friendship which lasted until her spectacular death in the plane crash.

Of John she said:

"That man is truly a great artist. He knows more about acting when he's asleep than most of us do when we're awake."

She freely admitted Barrymore was her favorite actor and said: "Working with him would inspire a dressmaker's dummy."

"No Man of Her Own" seemed to be just another picture in 1934, starring Clark Gable and Carole Lombard. But, as later events showed, it was the beginning of a romance which was to thrill Hollywood with its sincerity and durability as the "Perfect Match."

Tomorrow's chapter in the Life Story of Carole Lombard tells of the gay, hilarious, but beautiful romance of Carole and Clark Gable. Be sure to read it in Thursday's Boston Evening American.

CAROLE LOMBARD At Ranch Home

National Income 92 Billion in 1941

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 (AP)—War fattened the national income to the record-breaking total of $92,200,000,000 in 1941, or an average of $953 per person, government economists estimated today.

This was $14,200,000,000 more than 1940 and even $8,800,000,000 more than the fabulous year of 1929.

In 1942, it is due to be more. How much more depends upon the extent of growing war expenditures, and also upon how much prices rise.

The experts figured that about one-third of the increase in national income last year was dissipated in higher living cost. Taxes, savings campaigns, credit controls, price fixing and other devices are counted on to remedy this trend toward soaring costs of living.

Wages and salaries accounted for the biggest part of the national income, $48,000,000,000, which was nine per cent more than in 1940. Farm income, dividends, profits from unincorporated businesses and other types of income also gained.

HUNT CONCORD FUGITIVE

Police throughout the State today sought James W. Richards, 26, who fled Concord Reformatory in prison garb. Special search was conducted at Middleboro and South Hanson, where the escaped prisoner is said to have relatives.

SPECIAL CAR TAKES CAROLE TO HOLLYWOOD

LAS VEGAS, Nev., Jan. 21 (INS)

—Through another day of agonizing grief Clark Gable today awaited the disposal of a tails which will permit him to remove the bodies of his wife, Carole Lombard, and her mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Peters, to Los Angeles.

Scheduled to leave with the bodies last night, Gable was forced to stay over another day near the scene of the airplane crash which killed his wife, her mother, 15 Army air men, the bride of an Army flyer, Otto Winkler, Hollywood studio publicity man, and three members of the TWA crew.

However, at the last moment, the deaths were certified and the bodies were put aboard a train for Los Angeles.

GETS PRIVATE CAR

Gable was to leave in a private car on the train which will carry the bodies of his wife and mother-in-law to Los Angeles for burial, which is scheduled for Thursday. The special car was assigned for Gable's use by the Union Pacific Railroad to insure him complete privacy.

Meanwhile, the Army paid tribute to the 15 men of its air corps ferry command who were killed in the crash while on assignment by the Army.

TRIBUTE TO AIRMEN

Maj. H. W. Anderson, executive officer of the Air Corps Gunners School at McCarran Field, Las Vegas, said:

"The officers and men aboard that plane died in the line of duty as surely as if they had been shot down in combat. The nation that mourns for Carole Lombard will grieve for them as well."

"Such a tragedy is a multiple disaster, for the men who lost their lives while wearing their country's uniform were trained and skilled and in this time of crisis the nation can ill afford to lose them."

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 21 (INS)—

Hollywood took final steps today in preparation for final homage to one of its greats, Carole Lombard. Tentative arrangements have been made to hold funeral services for her and her mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Peters, at Forest Lawn Memorial Park tomorrow. The date is dependent upon the time the bodies arrive in Los Angeles from Las Vegas.

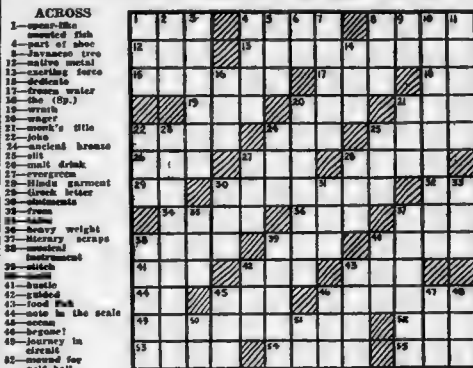

Services will be simple and attending will be only a few relatives and close friends. Miss Lombard requested such a funeral in her will.

Even her last motion picture, completed the day before Christmas, will be dedicated to her memory.

The picture, "To Be Or Not To Be," is a comedy in which she co-starred with Jack Benny. Alexander Korda, the producer, announced that because of her death, two lines of dialogue which referred to a woman in a plane will be deleted.

Secretary Wickard Right

By ELEANOR ROOSEVELT

National Woman Director of Civilian Defense

WASHINGTON, TUESDAY—As I sat at breakfast this morning, I read the criticism of Secretary Wickard's mention that we might possibly have to be a little careful in our use of sugar. He said we would have enough for our real needs and that we had plenty of substitutes, so I wonder what we, the people of the United States, really want our public officials to do.

Do we want to be kept in ignorance, because we can't be trusted to accept a situation and do the wise thing? It is perfectly obvious that a housewife who goes out and buys a hundred pounds of sugar and puts it away, is putting up the price of sugar for herself and her family. It is also obvious that she can not buy enough pounds of sugar to last her through the war.

It seems to me, that all of us ought to be grateful to be told the truth. If we have to go without things, we simply will go without them. Instead of chiding a public official who tells the truth, I should think it would be more important to devise ways of bringing home the need to prepare to meet conditions in the best and most sensible way.

The most sensible way of meeting a sugar shortage is: One, to find out where you can use substitutes; two, to find out where you can use less sugar and not notice it particularly; and three, make up your mind to do a little real sacrificing and give up some sugar you would ordinarily use.

Last night I saw the opening performance of Mr. Marc Connelly's play, "The Flowers of Virtue." Dean James Landis, Mr. Alexander Woolcott and I decided that the first act needed some going over. The play is increasingly good as it progresses, and the third act we thought very moving. Mr. Frank Craven is always delightful, but the two people who really delighted my soul are Mr. S. Thomas Gomez and Mr. Peter Secula.

This morning I took a half hour out and went to the Children's Hospital for the annual photograph with infantile paralysis patients. I think the children must have become accustomed to lights and cameras, for even the smallest girl sat with a smile on her face and endured the still photographs and movies without a tear.

I lunched with the ladies of the Senate. They are all working hard on Red Cross garments. They have changed their lunch, so that each person brings her own little box of food. Mrs. Wallace was kind enough to bring mine.

Good idea, and a resolution to make early in the New Year, is a check over of every closet. First of all, take everything out and be firm in deciding to give away those things you seldom or never use. Then before putting anything back, clean the closet thoroughly, repainting or repapering the walls if possible, and adding colorful new shelf edgings and a few fresh accessories.

YOU CAN BE BEAUTIFUL—Though exercises like this wand-swinging one demonstrated by Anne Shirley are grand for chest development, today Arline Gould offers a better idea . . . a cream that's unique, made especially to do something about hollow throats and shoulders!

'CREAM FOR CURVES' LATEST SMART BEAUTY TREATMENT

By ARLINE GOULD

A HOLLOW look about the face and throat might be a photogenic asset in Hollywood . . . but anywhere east of the "illusion" capital it is known as scrawiness. Even in Hollywood nowadays, the trend is toward healthier looking gals, and any day now Dietrich and Garbo may be forced to up their quota of vitamins and minerals and, perhaps, even put on a few pounds!

You probably are not aware of it . . . but there is actually a very famous cream which is dedicated solely to the cause of curves!

It's for use especially on the throat, neck and chest . . . always to be used below the chin, never on the face. They say this is because it is actually over-rich for the scantier layers of tissue that compose your complexion!

And . . . because it is meant to be used in quantity . . . it is not as expensive as you might expect it to be. Its famous creator intended that this rich, rich cream, of a clotted consistency, should be used lavishly over the neck, shoulders, arms and even elbows, so that in spite of its lush and rare ingredients, the cost was forced down. Don't stint in its use.

It has an interesting texture . . . slightly uneven because of the heavy richness of its contents. And it is used in a very special way.

Use it before going off to bed, massaging it thoroughly into the skin. Start under the ears and go around the chin, patting it in with firm, upward rotary movements somewhat like a massage, for all of ten minutes.

Take even more time, and more gentle rotary rubbing around the collarbone, which is often the most hollow-looking feature of one's shoulders. Employ a lighter pressure around the breasts. Leave it on overnight several times a week. This needn't interfere with the glamour of your night time get-up.

In the morning, spray cold water over the shoulders, neck and chest. They say this treatment has turned out more than one pair of beautiful shoulders!

For further information on this special "cream for curves," phone Arline Gould, LJBerty 4000, except the week-end, or write, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

NEWS FOR MODERN WOMEN

• FOOD •

By Martha Lee

THIS YEAR NATIONAL PEANUT WEEK will be observed from Jan. 22 to 31. Everybody loves peanuts—so much so that there is a saying: "Will power is the ability to eat one salted peanut!"

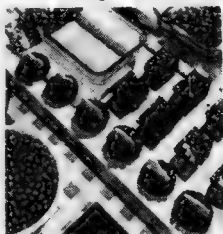

Strictly speaking, the peanut is not a nut—it is a pea, a member of the bean family, a legume or vegetable.

Most of us are so familiar with peanuts as a food from early childhood that we lose sight of the fact that they are an inexpensive and valuable contribution toward good nutrition in our everyday diet. Today everyone is vitamin conscious, and there is great demand for concentrated foods of high vitamin content. It is unfortunate, therefore, that too few people appreciate the fact that it would be difficult to purchase a better source of vitamins in a form that appeals to everyone, than peanuts.

Although we all eat peanuts, we haven't really begun to take advantage of what they can do for us in the kitchen. They make a great variety of delicious dishes—soups, salads, breads, cakes, candies, etc. Since peanuts are so nourishing, delicious and inexpensive, why not introduce them into daily menus in some of the following ways. They will give the family a good, rich supply of the B-complex vitamins and will add a new zest to meals.

PEANUT CHOCOLATE BARS WITH VARIATIONS

Melt the desired amount of chocolate in a double boiler. Add a generous portion of the peanuts and pour into wax paper lined or buttered dish to mold. Chill. When firm cut into bars. For variations add cut marshmallows, raisins, or a drop or two of peppermint flavor to this peanut-chocolate mixture before molding. If the chocolate-peanut mixture is molded in waxed baking cups, it offers individual patties and may be topped with an animal cracker to please the children.

PEANUT SANDWICH SPREAD

½ cup chopped peanuts (without skins)
2 egg yolks, hard cooked
½ tsp. lemon juice
Mayonnaise

Combine ingredients with enough mayonnaise to make a good consistency for spreading. This sandwich spread is good for hearty sandwiches as well as tea sandwiches.

PEANUT BUTTER-FRENCH TOAST SANDWICHES

Spread slices of enriched bread with peanut butter. Top with second slice of enriched bread to make sandwiches. Remove crusts; cut sandwiches in half; dip in an egg-milk mixture and fry. Drain on absorbent paper and serve hot with jelly, jam or syrup.

PEANUT MARLOW

½ lb. or 24 marshmallows
¾ cup crushed peanut brittle
Place ingredients in top of double boiler. When marshmallows are melted stir well and use as topping for baked apples or candied sweet potatoes. If a confection is preferred, then pour the marshmallow mixture into a shallow buttered dish and when cool cut in squares and roll in powdered sugar. Serve as candy. These candy squares may also be used on Graham crackers and toasted in the oven for a tasty treat.

PEANUT BUTTER MUFFINS

1½ cups flour
½ tsp. salt
3 tsp. baking powder
4 tsp. sugar
½ cup milk
1 egg
4 tsp. melted shortening
1-3 cup Peanut butter
Sift flour with salt, baking powder, and sugar; mix peanut butter thoroughly with milk, then egg, and shortening; then add all at once to dry mixture. Stir just until dry ingredients are moistened, but not smooth. Fill greased muffin pans 2-3 full and bake in hot oven (400 deg. to 425 deg. F.) 25 minutes. Makes 1 dozen muffins.

All the shops at this point are splurging with symbols of this support . . . there are print fabrics for frocks and negligees . . . there's a brilliantly becoming new makeup named appropriately . . . accessories, hats, just everything you can think of will boast the color or the actual feathers. DANNY CUPID scores again . . . in the Boston-Gotham romance revealed today with announcement by Dr. and Mrs. Kenneth Potter Monroe of 90 Commonwealth ave. that their daughter, Jane Potter Monroe, is to become the bride of Robert Wilson Goelet, Jr., of New York.

The prospective bridegroom's mother is the Duchess of Villa Rosa, Florence, Italy, and his father is R. W. Goelet of New York . . . The bride-to-be was educated at National Park Junior College and her fiancé attended Avon Old Farms School and Leicester Junior College . . .

Without even consulting travel folders, time tables or steamship schedules, many Bostonians were transported into a summertime setting as gay as any tropical resort, at the Copley-Plaza last evening . . . The occasion was the Gardenia Ball, an annual January spree given for the benefit of the Charlotte Cushman Club . . .

The ballroom was profusely decorated with garlands of fragrant gardenias and the ladies wore them in every conceivable way . . . Among the throng of dancers we glimpsed the Junior Peter Hunter Thompsons (Ann Tarbell) sharing a table for four with another couple . . . Ann wore a wristlet of gardenias and a matching white gown made with a shirred and draped bodice . . . Joyce Glueck, who will be presented to Gotham society at the Polish ball at the Waldorf Astoria Friday, danced last evening in a brilliant gown of flame chiffon . . . Her sister deb, Mikki Morse, who flew home from Sarah Lawrence for the party, wore a white lace gown . . .

MRS. MALCOLM BRADLEY FRENCH, president of the Cushman Club, extended a hearty welcome to all the guests and served as mistress of ceremonies during the elaborate midnight floor show.

MIMI BLAKE, of Dedham, and her fiancé, Lt. Ben Blake, of Weston, whose engagement was announced yesterday, are hastening plans for their wedding, due to Ben's scheduled transfer from Camp Edwards to Fort Sill . . . We have just learned that the ceremony will take place Friday, at St. Paul's Church, Dedham . . . Only a handful of guests will attend the simple nuptial festivities . . .

ALL SORTS of treasures, from a buckskin wind-breaker belonging to Admiral Byrd, to a pair of old-fashioned doll carriages donated by Mrs. H. P. Kendall of Sharon, who has a rare collection of dolls, are being admired at the Caledonian Market at 647 Boylston st., which is run for the benefit of the British War Relief Society . . .

Celebrating the opening of the market's new headquarters recently were those two tireless workers, Mrs. Herbert B. Shaw and Mrs. John Kennedy, who welcomed a steady stream of visitors and shoppers. Mrs. William B. Long arrived bright and early with her arms full of old silver trinkets which she donated to be sold for the cause. Mrs. William Bayne, wearing a becoming turquoise wool dress, also donated a varied assortment of treasures.

One of the most excited of yesterday's customers was Mrs. J. A. Lowell Blake, who bought a stack of pictures to provide a homey atmosphere in the recreation room for soldiers at Fort Strong. She is a member of the Soldiers and Sailors' committee and responsible for making the boys' surroundings as attractive as possible.

Listen, World! MY PRAYER

By Elsie Robinson

God—
Help me
With this job!
No use pretending,
Any more,
That I've got the stuff
To make a go of it!
Alone.
I haven't,
And I can't—
So why try
To fool myself
Or my neighbor,
Or you?
I've tried all that—
It didn't work.
All my smartness,
All my boasts,
All my alibis and excuses
Were a flop—
Now I'm coming clean,
Asking you, straight,
To give me a hand!

I'm not bright—
I'm not brave—
I'm not kind—
I'm not patient—
I'm not even Really honest, God.
Maybe, of course,
Some of it isn't
My fault.
Maybe
I'm not to blame
If I'm not a Master Mind—
And haven't got
A Heart of Gold
Or a Spine of Steel—
No use fooling!
I never yet
Have really done
The best I could—

Nor even half the best!
It's just this way,
God—
At last
I'm sick of it—
I'm sick
Of messing along
Like this—
I want, at last,
Before I quit,
To hang up
Some sort
Of a record.
Not for myself,
Not for rewards—
But just
For the sake
Of knowing,
For once,
I've played fair.
And so
I'm ditching
The conversation
And just asking space—
God—
Help me
With this job!
That's all, God.
I know it's
A pretty punk prayer—
But I'm asking it
With all I am,
And I'm backing it
With all I've got—
And if You'll Come across
For the time that's left,
And be my partner, God,
I promise, honest—
I'll do my darn'dest
Not to let You down.
AMEN.

Try This Old Home-Mixed Cough Relief. Surprising!

Child Could Make It.
No Cooking. Big Saving.
You may not know it, but, in your own kitchen, and in just a moment, you can easily prepare a really surprising relief for coughs due to colds. It's old-fashioned—your mother probably used it—but for real results, it can't be beaten.

First, make a syrup by stirring 2 cups granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. No cooking needed. It's no trouble at all.

Then get 1/4 ounce of Pinex from any drugstore. This is a special component of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well known for prompt action in throat and bronchial irritations.

Put the Pinex into a pint bottle, and add your syrup. Thus you make a full pint of really splendid cough syrup, and you get about four times as much for your money. It never spoils, and children love its pleasant taste.

And for quick relief, it's a wonder. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, eases the soreness, makes breathing easy, and lets you get restful sleep. Just try it, and if not pleased, your money will be refunded.

Florida Honeymoon For A. Lynde Cochranes

MR. AND MRS. ALEXANDER LYNDE COCHRANE (Cynthia Dunn) of Boston are honeymooning at the fishing island of Usseppa, Florida, not far from the fashionable resort of Boca Grande, where their marriage took place recently.

The bridegroom, son of Mrs. Dudley Pickman of Boston and the late A. L. Cochran, will soon be called to duty with the Army Air Corps as a student pilot.

MR. AND MRS. Ellis Huntington Dana of Wellesley announce the marriage on Jan. 16th of the former's sister, Miss Mary Dana, of Boston, to Henry Alinsworth Blake of Wollaston. The ceremony was performed at the Old South Church by Rev. Dr. Russell Henry Stafford, the pastor, assisted by Rev. Richard McClintock of the Episcopal Church of the Messiah in Auburn-dale.

The bride was attended by her sisters-in-law, Mrs. Ellis Huntington Dana and Mrs. Malcolm Boyd Dana of Demarest, Ga., and by the bridegroom's sister, Miss Mary Blake of Wollaston.

Mr. Ellis Dana gave his sister in marriage and William Cushing Blake of Hartford, Ct., was best man. The bride is the daughter of the late Rev. and Mrs. Malcolm Dana.

MISS RUTH ENGLISH, daughter of Mrs. Byron Whitney of Milton, has been visiting in New York where she served as bridesmaid at a fashionable wedding in the Episcopal Church of the Holy Trinity. The marriage was that of Miss Helen LeRoy Smith of New York and Smithtown, L. I., and Mr. William Law Clay, Jr., of Savannah, Ga. The ceremony was followed by a reception at the Colony Club.

War with all its flaming horror, produces heroes and displays of courage to match. All courage, however, is not war born. This is a less publicized courage on the home front and in the home itself. Today in the John E. Thompson home in Cleveland, O., Dutchess, 11, is a picture of courage. The home of John E. Thompson, hard working father, is an average one. The family may be your neighbors.

It is a sign, indeed, of the Thompsons when Mrs. Helen Thompson, wife and mother, is seen at the hospital while bringing her mother, Thompson into the world.

The baby was born after the mother succumbed.

The Thompson family street in Cleveland is a quiet one, but it is a place of a great deal of life. It is a place where a family of five is living. It is a place where a family of five is living. It is a place where a family of five is living.

Wins for Family

Born after the death of her mother, little Marion Thompson is now a healthy, normal and happy child... and to her sisters, Helen and Isabelle, much credit is due. It was they who took over the duties of mother... fighting from the depths of despair through the years to win out. Isabelle is shown (above) making sure Marion drinks her milk. Marion... Now a Husky, Healthy Little Miss of Five

War, with all its flaming horror, produces heroics and displays of courage to match. All courage, however, is not war born. There is a less publicized courage on the home front and in the home itself.

Today in the John E. Thompson home in Greenwood st., Dorchester, you'll find a practical demonstration of just that kind of courage. The family of John E. Thompson, hard working caddy, is an average American family. They might be your neighbors.

Five years ago tragedy struck the Thompsons when Mrs. Helen Thompson, wife, mother and pal, died at City Hospital while bringing another Thompson into the world.

The baby was born after the mother succumbed.

The Thompson family structure teetered dangerously, but settled back on its firm foundation and took up its new problems.

Chief of these was Marian, who had won life at such a terrible price, and fought for months to keep alive. It was half a year before she was able to join her two big brothers, Charles and John, and three adoring sisters, Anne, Helen and Isabelle.

Marian's joining the family fold was the beginning of a series of individual sacrifices. The father wanted no foster mother for his children and hasn't remarried to this day.

Nurses and housekeepers were a prohibitive expense. So the childhood game of playing mother became a solemn reality for the three young sisters. Discussion of baby food formulas replaced talk of baseball, dresses. Evenings were willingly sacrificed and everybody pitched in to do his or her job. Result was a happy, closely knitted family that was able to run its normal course.

Anne, who had sacrificed many dates and parties to care for her baby sister is now married with a baby of her own. Charles and John are also married and Dad and Helen together keep the family larder well stocked.

Baby Marion is now a precocious young lady of five, abounding in health and mischief, according to the "mother" of the Thompsons, Isabelle.

Helen, now 21, and attractive, may not be able to hold the authors off much longer. Does that mean impending crisis for the Thompson family?

No, Isabelle has anything to say about it.

"I'll take care of them (her father and Marian) as long as they need me."

OUR DAILY CITATION: To all the heroic persons, including firemen, patrolmen, auxiliaries, volunteers and residents, who risked injury and death to save the lives of others in Lynn's Melvin Hall apartment house fire Tuesday. Each survivor has his own story to tell—a story that causes the listener to realize anew that human nature is fundamentally good.

THE BROODING SAMSON

The Nazi conquerors of Europe feast temporarily on their ill-gotten spoils, but the day of reckoning is close upon them. Soon, like mighty Samson of the Bible, the trampled nations of Europe will arise, throw off their shackles and avenge the sufferings of oppressed millions.

TO AID war morale, the British Color Council, which is responsible for the shades and hues of many of the world's textile fabrics, is shelving drab sophistication in favor of dazzling gaiety.

For this year's stylish London woman there are no fewer than twenty-one shades of blue, ranging from bright navy to subtle egg-shell, pine needle regina and gas-light.

If the lady does not like blue, she can wear one of the new greens which have such alluring names as linden, larch, spring and hyacinth.

Or she may be fashionable in gowns of buttercup, sun-gold, saffron or gold leaf yellow.

For her whose tastes and preferences run to extremes, there is a wide and magnificent variety of reds, such as pimpernel, scarlet, maypole, star blush and the ever-popular French wine homes.

The English are wise; they know the psychological effect of gay colors, and they are employing it to their country's advantage in speeding the day of victory.

Moreover, the British resourcefulness should be a challenge and an inspiration to us.

Surely if people who have been bombarded and subjected to the full horror of modern warfare can resemble strolling rainbows, we who live on the safer side of the Atlantic ought to try to look equally bright and cheerful.

In fact, it might be a very good idea for all of us, women especially, to put away our dismal blacks, grays and browns "for the duration" and substitute color combinations as gay and refreshing as those which our South American cousins have been wearing and enjoying for centuries.

YANKEE INGENUITY may end the drug shortage which is threatened by the war and the spread of hostilities.

Digitalis farms have been successfully started in New Hampshire, and the product is said to be considerably above the United States pharmacopoeia standards.

The slightly acid soil of the Granite State is admirably suited to the cultivation of this drug which prolongs the lives of thousands of heart disease sufferers.

Meanwhile, the Massachusetts College of Pharmacy, working in co-operation with the National Research Council, is conducting experiments to determine not only what European and Asiatic drugs will thrive in this climate, but also to improve the quality of native belladonna, senna and a large number of condiment herbs. Our forefathers made tomatoes, potatoes, cabbages, onions and scores of other fruit and vegetable producing plants grow in New England as well and often better than these plants had previously grown in other parts of the world.

There is every reason for hoping that we can and will be just as fortunate in our new enterprise.

On The Side

Look how my ring encompasseth thy finger,
Even so thy breast encompasseth my poor heart
Wear both of them, for both of them are mine.
—SHAKESPEARE.

IN THE FILM, "Ball of Fire," Gary Cooper, playing a professor, gives Barbara Stanwyck, playing the title role, an engagement ring on which he says the above lines have been engraved. That's a lot of engraving. Still there's no doubt it could be all put on one little ring. Consider that a Spokane, Wash., man engraved the Lord's Prayer on a pinhead. . . . British Prime Minister Winston Churchill's mother was born in Brooklyn, N. Y. . . . If you are nervous and apprehensive, "Don't Be Afraid," by Dr. Edward Spencer Cowles, is a good book to read. . . . The way to pronounce Corregidor is "Co-ray-hee-dor." . . . The extent of the fall France experienced is shown by fact 1,462,422 Frenchmen are still prisoners of the Reich. . . . According to a legal decision in Illinois in 1923, the language spoken in the United States is not English but Ameri-

PLEASE NOTE: Streamlining of good, old-fashioned names by females continues unabated. Recently noted in print are Jayne for Jane, Doryce for Doria, Maryea for Mary and Maercya for Marcia. Don't know whether these strange alterations are due to numerology or a search for glamour. . . . "I have three daughters ready to get married," writes a Chicagoan. "Couldst you give some advice on how a girl can judge what kind of a husband a man will make?" Am not qualified to do this. In fact, I am almost ready to believe the only way a girl can find out what kind of a husband a man will make is to marry him. However, the girls might read "Virginibus Puerisque," by Robert Louis Stevenson. There is some good advice in that. It was in this essay Mr. Stevenson said: "Marriage is of so much use to a woman, opens out to her so much more of life, and puts her in the way of so much more freedom and usefulness that, whether she marry well or ill, she can hardly miss some benefit."

ASIDES: "Dinah Shore once sang the St. Louis Blues as well as Marion Harris ever did," says Phil Mills of Brooklyn. "Like many critics you allow nostalgia to dictate to true criticism." . . . Writes "Seventeen" of Chicago: "Guy Lombardo's band is for elderly people to dance to. Give me Glenn Miller." . . . "History reveals and the experience of many women teaches that the best sweethearts and lovers are men between five feet eight and five feet ten inches in height," states a young woman of Baltimore. "As for men of six feet and over, they make the best basketball centers."

PASSING BY: Lesley Woods, Actress. First hit the spotlight when chosen Miss Young America at the last Chicago World's Fair. At the same time, Tyrone Power was chosen Mr. Young America. . . . Nadine Conner, of the Metropolitan Opera Company, an American girl who received all her vocal training in this country. She is married to a doctor. Why is it doctors have such a great attraction for screen, stage and opera stars? Could it be because a doctor's experience has taught him how to soothe and sympathize? A little soothing and sympathizing goes a long way with an actress. Keep that in mind if you are trying to win the heart and hand of one.

ALMOST CONFIDENTIAL: What became of that tawdry sextette known as Red Nichols and His Five Pennies? . . . Stated a Soviet spokesman: "We know the enemy is strong. The wounded boast is dangerous before he dies." How true that is. . . . Californian nominates for the quaintest titled song that ditty which goes: "I'm looking for a man who plays alto and baritone and doubles on a clarinet and wears a size 37 suit." I remember hearing that but forget the rest of the words.

SIDELIGHTS: "I claim a man in his forties is a young man. My girl friend says he is middle-aged. How about it?" writes a Bostonian. Lynn Doyle, an authority on the subject, has said: "A man in his forties is a young man with experience." . . . "That Cancer husbands (June 22-July 22) are a help around the house is correct," writes a young matron. "My husband, born July 12, can do the housework as well as I can and he likes to." Another lucky girl who married a Cancer-born man says: "My husband has wonderful housekeeping efficiency ideas. His suggestions save me much work and trouble." A New York wife states: "My husband is Cancer-born. I don't know whether he is any help around the house or not because he is never at home, the rat."

ADDED DETAILS: Helen Jeffery, born on December 25, is not in favor of Bob Ripley for President of The Born on Christmas Club. "I like Mr. Ripley and think he is a brilliant man," says Helen. "But I feel Robert Benchley should be our president. He looks more like Santa Claus." . . . Honey-suckle Lane is the name of a street in Peconic, L. I., which also has streets named Lovers' Lane and Skunk Lane. My favorite street name around New York is the Sawmill River Road. . . . "I was born in 1922 and my parents called me 'Sonny Boy' and they still do no matter how much I object," states Tom Grogan of Chicago. "But if we ever meet, Pal, will you please call me Tom, 'Irish,' 'Groggie' or anything you like but 'Sonny Boy.'"

HOW ABOUT some activity with the object of furnishing entertainments, card parties, luncheons, etc., and generally making life more bearable for the girls the boys in the armed forces left behind them. I mean the Army and Navy wives. It's pretty tough sitting around worrying, wondering and waiting day after day and thinking every time the door bell rings it is somebody bringing bad news.

SNOW, SNOW STAY AWAY from our door and the Boston tax-rate may show a slight improvement . . . The Monday rains did the work of a thousand plows . . . THE CRYPTIC REFERENCE in some of the New York columns involving Johnny Broderick and another well-known New Yorker had the Gotham city editors sleuthing out the story . . . Here is what happened—in Lindy's, at 4:30 a. m. . . A newspaperman who is in service, but wasn't in uniform at the time, had been baited ferociously for nearly half an hour by the action of a prominent New York real estate millionaire . . . Punches were about to be swapped, when waiters and friends intervened . . . But the heckled one snatched a ketchup bottle and let his tormentor have it . . . The victim was a gory sight, but the ketchup was part of the coloring . . . Where Johnny Broderick figured was at the Polyclinic Hospital, where the splattered heckler was taken . . . A man named Hamilton, a friend of Broderick's, telephoned him to take charge of the incident because Hamilton knew that Broderick and the nervous ketchup-spiller were close friends . . . But there was no arrest.

THE LADY NAMED ROSE LA ROSE denies matrimonial intentions on the part of herself or Squire Harry Richman, who has been escorting her hither and yon (in Boston and in New York and Detroit) . . . "I am one of perhaps a hundred girls Harry (Ed. note: What-futeman!) is interested in," said Miss La Rose. "My career is my consuming interest at this time. It suffered a two-month setback in New York because I was too dynamic. (Ed. note: The officials frowned.) But I'll be able to play the Bigtown again in late March."

Hollywood Today

MRS. WILLIAM IS SERIOUSLY ILL

By Louella O. Parsons

Mrs. William

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 21—Almost simultaneously with arrival of a telegram from William Gaxton, commending the idea expressed in this column that Carole Lombard be buried with full military honors, came a movie story about him. Buddy De Sylva has been negotiating with Billy to come to Hollywood to co-star with Victor Moore in "Are You a Mason?" the stage comedy that was a hit so long ago. Billy, a friend of long standing, played in Paramount pictures about 10 years ago, but he has been too successful on the stage of late to give Hollywood a thought. If "Are You a Mason?" can be developed with a sufficiently strong role for Bob Hope, he will join those two other top funsters, Messrs. Gaxton and Moore.

I DON'T BELIEVE anyone is surprised that Teresa Wright has been selected by Sam Goldwyn to play Mrs. Lou Gehrig. It was in the bag, so to speak, days ago—just as Gary Cooper was chosen long before the public announcement was made. Both Miss Wright, who had such a hit in "The Little Foxes" and Gary (Sergeant York) Cooper, are under contract to Sam. The Gehrig epic, now called "The Pride of the Yankees," has been one of filmland's most widely publicized ideas.

G. SPRECKLES

WHEN I READ "The Storm" last month I would have sworn this was one book-of-the-month that wouldn't reach the screen. You see, George R. Stewart chose as his "heroine" a little storm blowing up in the Pacific that becomes a raging hurricane. Yet the effect of the storm on the lives of various and assorted people does make for vital drama and much in the same way unrelated events added up to a colorful movie in "Grand Hotel." Paramount is so convinced there is a sensational picture in this best seller they've plunked down a record price for the rights and will make "The Storm" on the same proportions as "For Whom the Bell Tolls."

ERROLL FLYNN has been escorting Shirley Cowan, one of Gloria Vanderbilt's bridesmaids, to various night spots. They met when Gloria became the bride of Pat DiCicco and have seen each other on various occasions. Lili Damita has not yet obtained her divorce and even though they seem as far apart as the poles and each has been seen with other people their friends haven't yet despaired they may get together.

DONNA REED, youthful M-G-M star, gets herself a boyfriend in "The Courtship of Andy Hardy," all because the public demanded it. Mickey Rooney's latest movie was taken to Huntington Park for a preview and many of the cards said, "We liked the picture, but we don't think Donna Reed should be neglected." She played the part of a wallflower who, through the influence of Mickey, blossoms into a beautiful young girl. She falls for the irresistible Mickey, but he will have none of her.

CHATTER in Hollywood: After many years of separation—six years to be exact, Mrs. Lillian Tryon has finally decided to divorce her husband, Glenn Tryon, Hal Roach producer. At the time the Tryons parted Glenn was an actor and they said they would have a trial separation, but apparently they were so much happier apart they never tried to resume their life together again. Mrs. Tryon has gone to Nevada—either Reno or Las Vegas where she will establish residence and after the divorce Hollywood will be surprised indeed if he and Jane Frazee do not wed. However, in fairness to the young lady, let me hasten to say she did not come between Lillian and Glenn. He did not know Jane at the time of his separation.

SNAPSHOTS of Hollywood collected at random: Mrs. Warren William is seriously ill with threatened pneumonia; Edward Ashley, who certainly gets around, met Geraldine Spreebles when she planned into Hollywood; Cobina Wright, Jr., had a few friends in to tea to meet her bridegroom, Palmer Beaudette. Among the guests were Maureen O'Hara and her bridegroom, Will Price, Brenda Joyce, Owen Ward, Constance Moore and Johnny Macchio; Eddie Dowling, New York stage producer is in town and rumor says one of the attractions is Linda Gray, Paramount actress; the gold sequin dress One Munson wore in "Shanghai Gesture" will be auctioned at the President's Birthday Ball and the proceeds given to the infantile paralysis fund; Emig Cronby is studying Spanish. That's all for today. See you tomorrow!

MEET SUGARPUSS O'SHEA!
It's Barbara Stanwyck, co-starred with Gary Cooper in Samuel Goldwyn's "Ball of Fire." It is neck-and-neck with the all-high "Kitty Foyle" boxoffice records in its fourth smash week on Keith-Memorial screen.

Patricia Hitchcock Gets 'Solitaire' Part

Dwight Deere Wiman is going all out this season for daughters of well-known fathers in his Broadway productions. Latest is Patricia Hitchcock, daughter of film director Alfred Hitchcock.

She'll appear in John van Druten's "Solitaire," which Wiman is producing.

"Boston After Dark," by George Holliad, appears every day in the Boston American.

'Ball of Fire' Held for Fourth Week at Keith's

Carroll Film Also Held

Capacity audiences demand that Samuel Goldwyn's sensational film, "Ball of Fire," starring Barbara Stanwyck and Gary Cooper, be held for a fourth week at the Keith Memorial Theater. "Obliging Young Lady" starring Joan Carroll and featuring Ruth Warrick and Edmond O'Brien, is also being held over.

Gary Cooper and Barbara Stanwyck are co-starred in the gay adventure, with a distinguished supporting cast in one of the funniest stories of recent years. Professor Potts, head of a little group of learned experts compiling a new encyclopedia, needs information so he can write an article on "slang" for the "S" volume.

His researches lead him to SugarpuSS O'Shea, a night club entertainer who is a fountain of slang. Delighted, the professor invites her to visit the headquarters. Since her boy friend, the gangster Joe Liliac, is currently in a jam with the police and SugarpuSS finds she is wanted for questioning, she hastily takes refuge with Potts and his fellow professors until the search dies down. Not only does SugarpuSS completely disrupt the experts and their mode of living, but she also finds herself falling in love with Potts.

What happens when SugarpuSS at the last minute changes her mind after preparing to marry Joe, makes the side-splitting conclusion to this most amusing picture. Cooper plays Potts, Dana Andrews is seen as Joe, with Miss Stanwyck, Adden Jenkins, Oscar Homolka, Henry Travers, & Z. Sakall, Tully Marshall, Dan Durysa and Kathleen Howard in important parts.

GRETA GARBO PLAYS TWINS IN 'TWO-FACED WOMAN' NOW AT LOEW'S THEATERS

You'll see twice as much of Garbo in "Two-Faced Woman," Metro's spectacular production which got thumbs down from the League of Decency when it was originally released, because the fascinating Greta plays twins.

Opening today on Loew's State and Orpheum screens, "Two-Faced Woman" is the story of a shy, retiring, charming ski instructor and her identical twin sister, a flaming glamour-girl who is the toast of the Manhattan night-spots.

Melvyn Douglas, personable, young magazine executive, meets the one while vacationing in an Idaho winter resort. He falls in love and marries her within 24 hours. Later, in New York, where his business affairs demand his presence, he meets the devastating glamour-girl. He falls in love with her, too.

Two Features On Beacon Screen

Rosalind Russell, Don Ameche and Kay Francis, in "The Feminine Touch," and "Men at Large," G-mas picture featuring Marjorie Weaver and George Reeves, are to be seen on the Beacon screen, starting tomorrow and through Saturday.

Adolph's Kick Reminds Bugs Of Mr. Mack

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

Distributed by International News Service
Well, Adolf is complaining that it's bitterly cold in Russia, and it got me to thinking of old Connie Mack around 1912.

Connie's team was handing Griffith's outfit a good shelling when it came up a drizzle in the third inning.

Old Griff hollered to the ump for a called game, and Connie sent word, "Tell Griff it's raining on my side of the field, too."

So I figure it's just as cold for the Russians as it is for the Germans. Except the Russians are winning.

30 Sharkey in Shkor's Corner As Giant Tackles Weinberg

Johnny Shkor, Brighton giant, who stands six-four and weighs some 220 pounds, makes the first defense of his N. E. heavyweight championship tonight at Boston Garden, when he clashes with Bill Weinberg, Chelsea, over the titular distance of 12 rounds. Shkor, awarded the crown by the N. E. Boxing Ass'n, composed of members of the N. E. ring commissions, is a favorite, and the experts think he'll punch his way past the Weinberg menace.

"HIYA PAL"—Johnny Shkor, 220-pound Brighton belter, practices stepping through ring ropes for his match tonight with Bill Weinberg at Garden. Shkor is piloted by Johnny Buckley, who led Jack Sharkey to title.

The Chelsea contender, a sizable youth himself, is by no means a pop-over. He can box and he can hit, and he'll be a danger to Shkor as long as he's in there. He won his last by a k. o. over Dave Ritchie.

Shkor, however, doesn't think the bout will go 12 rounds or that Weinberg will stand up under the proposed wallop. Shkor, incensed by Weinberg and the claim of the Weinberg retinue that he has been dodging the Chelsea boy, is gunning for a quick k. o.

Jack Sharkey will be in Shkor's corner, and the Russian bomber is a mighty good fighter when the Old Squire is telling him how to operate.

Sharkey stepped in behind Shkor in the second fight with Jim Robinson and Shkor, beaten in the first clash, turned abruptly around and belted his way to an easy win. The Shkor-Weinberg battle, under the sponsorship of the Goodwin A. C., will be the first pro show in the Garden in almost a year and marks the return of Matchmaker Rip Valenti.

Valenti has gathered a good supporting card with Ralph Zancilli, the Providence "Ripper" putting Bill Tordiglione, North End, to the acid test in the eight-round semi-final.

Sixes will be Dave "Golden Boy" Andrews, Lowell, vs. George Beckles, Cambridge; Al "Red" Priest, Cambridge, vs. the veteran Oscar Suggs, Newport, R. I., and Tony Valenti, Cambridge, vs. Jerry Zullo, Chelsea.

Hansen Picked To Defeat Cox

"Sliding Bill" Hansen, skilled and elusive mat star from Salt Lake City, will be favored to halt Thunderbolt Joe Cox, Kansas bad man, when they meet in the main event of Promoter Paul Bowser's weekly wrestling show tonight at the Boston Arena. But "Sliding Bill" is in for a hectic evening if Cox shows only half of the belligerent tactics which usually characterize his battles.

Cox is one of the roughest gentles in mat circles today but Hansen says he has no doubts as to the outcome.

COACHES OF UNDEFEATED SCHOOL ELEVEN TO ATTEND RECORD-AMERICAN GRID FETE

HENRY TOCZYŁOWSKI

Coaches of undefeated teams which figured in the balloting of the Board of Coaches in selecting the All Scholastic team will be guests of the Boston Evening American-Daily Record tomorrow night at the "All" banquet at the Hotel Lenox.

Included in this list will be Ed Stewart, Seton; Henry Toczyłowski, Saugus; Frank Burke, Stoughton; Jim Moran, B. C. High; Steve White, South Boston; Harry Arlanson, Weymouth; and Bill Joyce, Lynn Classical.

Guest speakers at this affair will be Joe McKenney, physical director of the Boston schools, and Tom Keady, veteran coach. Both are closely connected with schoolboy sports and are recognized as "straight from the shoulder" after-dinner speakers.

All Scholastic players include Ed Markiewicz, Salem; Bill Ryan, Arlington; Russ Murphy, Medford; Al Surman, Peabody; Harry Chrusniak, Lynn English; Carl McKinnon, Everett; Mike English, East Boston; Boley Dancowicz, Lynn Classical; Pete Kadzia, Boston Trade; Frank Cavallo, Weymouth, and Ed Shipulski, Saugus.

Silk satin jackets, now on display in the show-windows of James W. Brins Sporting Goods Co., and gold football charms will be awarded the members of the "official" team.

The Board of Coaches which picked the team includes Harry Downes, Brookline; Dennis Gilden, Everett; George Keannally, Revere; Bill Chrenberger, Boston English; Bill Broderick, Salem; Fred Ostergren, Arlington; Ed "Skip" Sherlock, Hyde Park, and Jim Mansfield, Haverhill.

Bill Grimes, Boston American sports writer, will be toastmaster.

32 Sixth B. C. Gridder Joins Armed Forces

Boston College's football squad is rapidly becoming a heavy contributor to Uncle Sam's fast growing Army. Six husky Eagles already have enlisted and others will follow soon.

Albert "Tuck" Toomey is the latest member to answer the call to colors. "Tuck" has resigned from college and will be inducted into the Army Air Corps ground crew unit Friday. He expects to go to Camp Devens for his preliminary training and later to Jefferson Barracks, Jefferson, Mo.

HOPES TO JOIN PAL

At the latter place he hopes to join Linden Blanchard, grid-hockey star from Arlington, who was inducted last week.

Toomey and Blanchard, both members of the sophomore class, played side by side for two years. "Tuck" was second string varsity center last fall. "Lindy" was second string variety guard.

Both are six footers. Toomey weighs 195 pounds, Blanchard 184. Though both wanted to join the Air Corps as flying cadets, physical defects ruined their hopes. A bone separation in his nose, an old football injury, was Toomey's bugaboo. Poor eyesight is keeping Blanchard on the ground.

Justin McGowan, 210-pound physical specimen, was the first footballer to join the colors. McGowan was drafted last October after he had participated in the St. Anselm and Tulane games. At last reports he was headed for officers' training school. He received his preliminary training at Fort Bragg.

Tom Moran, third string varsity center and letterman of last year's squad, has enlisted in the Navy. Moran is from Dorchester and graduated from Cathedral High School.

MAHONEY FLYING

Ed Mahoney, fourth string full-back who was handicapped last fall by a head injury, has joined the Air Corps as a flying cadet. He'll do what Toomey and Blanchard would like to do—fly.

Al Ruback, first string freshman end, resigned from college two weeks ago to join the Air Corps ground crew. Al volunteered in his home town, Lansford, Pa. That makes six Eagles in the service at this early date.

"Forward fighting Eagles"—those words, taken from the college song, are beginning to have a new significance.

Amateurs Box At Fort Devens

Gene Driscoll and members of the New England A. A. U. boxing committee will stage the first of a series of amateur boxing shows for the boys in the service, the program getting under way tonight at the Lovell General Hospital at Fort Devens.

Among the local amateur mitt-men who will perform are Peter Touma, Lynn, and Gordon Buckless, Saugus, 126 pounds. Bill Timilty, Roxbury, and Mert Hunt, Camp Edwards, 135.

James Pettie, Woburn. Willard Buckless, Saugus, and Harry Berardo, Lynn, 147.

Al Otero, Boston; George Berland, Boston, and Joe Stasio, Revere, 160.

Exhibition bouts will also be held in which boys like Jimmy Mulligan, Lowell, the National A. A. U. middleweight champion, will take part.

N. Y. WEIGHING IN TO OPEN HORSE ROOMS

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK, Jan. 21 (INS)—Good or bad, off-course horse-betting is bound to come. And it looks as if New York will set the pace for the rest of the country.

Right now up at Albany the champions of legalized horse parlors are saying that such betting would cost $25,000,000 a year in the always undernourished state treasury.

When New York finally kicked the bookmakers off the tracks and installed pari-mutuels two years ago, the supporters of such movement predicted that the state would make $10,000,000 out of horse parks. This year the state made a little over $7,000,000, but there were no complaints.

The figure $25,000,000 has been hit upon as the state's slice of the away-from-the-track betting business because supporters of the bill believe that about three times more betting is done away from race tracks than is done in the presence of the giddy-yaps.

Forgotten for the moment, or stuck back in the galleys and herms ad section of the managed bill to legalize horse parlors is the notion that such a bill would exterminate a lot of vermin who have been feeding on horse-players for years, as cigar store books, and who have never declared Uncle Sam in on their swag.

The main selling point for the legislators and the public at large is that $25,000,000.

Every little million helps these days.

Morally there is no difference between betting on a horse at Times sq. or at Belmont.

The question seems to be, shall we continue to place bets with seamy bums who won't cough up a part of it to Uncle, and who won't give you track odds, or place the bets in shops operated on the up and up by civil servants?

$50,000 Widener Test Ahead for Challedon

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 21 (AP)—W. L. Brann's great thoroughbred, Challedon, is preparing to campaign again to add to the $322,235 he has won in four years of racing.

Standing by the rail at Hialeah Park to watch the big day go through a light early-morning workout, Brann announced smilingly that Challedon probably would run in the $50,000 added Widener here March 7 and in at least one condition race before then.

LOOKS ALL RIGHT

Challedon's racing future was uncertain as 1941 drew to a close. Plagued by various ailments, he failed to place in three starts during the only year of his career in which he did not win at least $67,000.

"He looks all right, doesn't he?" asked the tall, erect Maryland sportsman.

"If he shapes up as well as he looks now, we'll run him at least once before the Widener. He and Pictor both look fine so far and barring accidents I think they'll be all right."

Both Challedon and Pictor, which had his best year in 1941, are Widener nominees. Pictor won $50,925 last year for a three-year total of $32,335.

NO CHANCE: TAKEN

Brann's two aces and numerous other turf stars were brought here from California after the Santa Anita track was closed because of war conditions.

Brann took no chances with his prized Challedon in his initial workouts here. Because a muddy track had made the footing uncertain and because the horse was out of training, he was not under saddle as he went around the track at a slow pace.

10 N. E. All-America Finalists

ALL-AMERICA amateur boxing will reach its high at the Garden on next Monday night with the greatest array of simon pure fistic talent ever to appear in the same tournament sweeps into action.

It is fitting that New England should have a better representation in this year's All-America show than in former years. This is due to the fact that in addition to its two eastern champions, Willard Buckless and Tony Peppi, this section of the country will also have as its standard bearers the eight winners in the open classes of the Diamond belt finals.

This condition will give New England ten boxers in the All-America finals. In addition to Peppi and Buckless, the local boxers will be Joe Herbert, Red Gullage, Walter Barch, James Sauer, Frank McDougall, Jimmy Mulligan, Michael Leone, and John Pretzie.

I believe these young boxers will give a good account of themselves against the champions from Chicago, Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Buffalo and Albany.

In all, 32 boxers will compete. There will be two semi-finals and a final in each division, 24 bouts before the final title holder is crowned.

It is likely that the Chicago CTO team will enter the tournament as a favorite. The Chicago boxers have been selected following a tournament in which more than 300 simon pures competed.

Chicago has been a hotbed for amateur boxing during the past 10 years. Its boxers have gained fame in Golden Gloves and A. A. U. championships. This is the first time a Chicago team has entered the All-America tournament.

Pittsburgh has also named a crack team for the Boston bouts. Pittsburgh has always been a top town for amateur boxing, and its All-America representatives feel they have an excellent chance to win most of the titles on Monday night.

Popular Price Scale

The All-American committee and the Irish American A. A. have been praised for keeping their popular price scale of 55 cents, $1.10, $1.65 and $2.20 for the finals. The immense capacity of the Garden, with 16,000 good seats, will give all who wish to do so an opportunity to see the fistic classic.

I find that Americans are more sports minded than ever seeking healthy athletic outlet to get their mind off at least off the war.

The Silver Skates American-Record at last Sunday's support. The attendance at the Derby established a record. The competition and set high marks for excitement.

Rockingham in

Lou Smith has added Rockingham Park to the list of which plan to do big charity during 1942. Lou from Miami, Fla., that give four days of his summer meeting that open 20 to worthy causes.

There will be a day for the one for the Infantile Paralysis Fund, another for the Army and Navy Fund and a fourth day for the Red Cross.

These four days should net the charities to be benefited over $100,000.

We add the name of Rockingham Park to the Honor Roll of race tracks which already carries the names of Suffolk Downs and the Raynham Dog Track. Before many more days the other horse and dog tracks in New England will have announced plans for giving days and nights to service charities.

Random Shots

Alfred G. Vanderbilt, one of the principal owners of Belmont Park and Pimlico as well as of a large racing stable, is planning to enter the Army. Vanderbilt is making arrangements for his representatives to direct his racing empire while he is in service.

Russ Murray covered 14,000 miles during his recent trip in a trailer that took him to California and later to Florida. Russ' health is better. It has been for two years. While en route west, Murray stopped off at the Mayo Clinic for a physical checkup.

Johnny Moran, who writes publicity for the Raynham dog track and Rockingham Park, has gone to Florida. Dave Wilson has promised to give Moran a few winners.

The mutuel handle at the Fair Grounds in New Orleans continues to run well below $100,000. The track is deeply in the red, but it is expected to complete its winter meeting which will go through February 17.

BRUNSWICK, ME., CLUB SENDS 4 TEAMS TO HEARST SHOOT

The Brunswick Rifle Club from Brunswick, Me., has not only entered four complete teams in the William Randolph Hearst Citizen Marksmanship competition but has also co-operated to the fullest extent in teaching civilians in their community the proper use of firearms.

The organization now conducts classes two nights a week in the safe use and handling of firearms as well as target shooting with H. Boyd, J. A. Beaulieu and S. E. Merrill acting as instructors.

In entering four complete teams, this group automatically becomes their own league and insures the top team of being eligible to shoot in the Hearst final next spring.

It is interesting to see the types of occupations of the various club members.

On the clubs there is the chief of police and an ordinary patrolman; a master electrician and a plain electrician; a sporting goods store owner and a sporting goods store clerk; a superintendent of water works and a machinist; a textile mill executive, a doctor, a grocer, a jeweler, an undertaker and a photographer.

No class distinction here. And proficiency in shooting will keep that democratic force in operation here for generations to come.

No one is too young and for that reason, junior marksmanship should be encouraged. William Randolph Hearst is sponsoring junior competition and all youngsters in high school, college freshmen or in that age range can take part in this great event.

By RINGSIDE

For the first time in the amateur boxing history of Boston a full team of Chicago champions will invade this city next Friday afternoon for the Grand All-America finals, which will be held at the Garden Monday.

Even the National A. A. U. championships which have been held here for years never drew eight champions from the Windy City.

These great All-America finals, though, which are a team test, so intrigued Paddy Kane, one of the finest handlers of amateur fighters in the country, that he is bringing on the whole C. Y. O. championship team to tangle with the Allegheny champions, the New England Diamond Belters and the Eastern title holders from Boston, Albany, Buffalo and Cleveland.

In a letter to Tom Kanaly, Kane stated that his boys are a cinch to grab four titles and that he is out for a clean sweep—something that has never come close to being accomplished in the seven-year history of the All-America championships.

DADE IN 1941 FINALS

Let's take a look at this Chicago team that Paddy Kane insists is the greatest ever assembled:

The 112-pounder is the 21-year-old veteran Al Noto, who has won 92 out of 112 bouts and has an uncanny way of spotting weaknesses in the opposition which enables him to finish up in whirlwind fashion. Harold Dade is the 118-pounder, and he is well known to Boston fans. He fought here in the National A. A. U. championships last spring as a flyweight and went all the way to the finals where he lost a split decision.

Watch Fred Dawson, the prize kid featherweight. Here is a youngster who has been fighting less than a year and has swept everything before him in the Midwest. Al Reasoner, who invaded Chicago from Muskogee, Okla., is a great athlete. He is an "in fighter" with a dead pan much on the Joe Louis style, and he figures to make it interesting for any lightweight he faces.

Only 19 years old and a truck driver, Joe Dugo has left his job to make this trip to Boston. He has been fighting a year and has won five sectional titles by knockouts.

Eddie Conroy is one of the most popular youngsters in Chicago. He recently outpointed the 10 best middewights in Chicago to make this C. Y. O. team and is the likely favorite in his class Monday night. STEPHENS K. O. KING

Chicago has a prize pair of big boys. Harry Stephens, 175-pounder, hails from Kenosha, Wisconsin. He is strictly a puncher and has "blitzed" his way to several one-round knockouts.

He stole the show in the semi-finals of the C. Y. O. championships with his lethal punching. Paddy Kane insists he will hit harder than any fighter in the All-America windup Monday.

Hubert Hood, who came to Chicago by way of Jackson, Mississippi, is the heavyweight. In his 40 Chicago victories this year, he has knocked out 15 opponents. He is very fast for a big fellow and a rugged all around performer.

These eight standouts will meet 24 other boys who believe they are every bit as good as the invaders.

It was in this dizzy downhill descent that Toni established his fame as being the first skier to ever run the famous headwall of Tuckerman Ravine straight.

Striking across the floor of the ravine, he sped on between jutting rocks and crags and schussed the little headwall, thrilling the spectators by "skating" to increase his speed, while the other competitors were in various states of collapse at this point.

Toni then pursued his merry way down the treacherous Sherburne Trail, almost running ahead of the very wind, leaving smoking tracks behind him.

During the summer, the broad-shouldered Mr. Matt keeps fit by swinging an axe, clearing the trails and slopes on Cranmore Mountain. He likes to swim, plays a strenuous game of tennis, and even tried his hand at golf last summer.

"These simple steps are followed by storming and the steep turns. Absolute mastery of such fundamentals is necessary before one can hope to become an expert skier."

This stalwart ski runner remembers when he played around in the deep powder of the Tyrolean Alps only a few years ago, but he is now completely won over to our New England terrain.

"American skiing developments are wonderful!" exclaimed Toni. "In a short time hundreds of thousands of dollars have been spent to give the skier more pleasures."

TRAINS AT 6 A. M.

"Scores of new slopes and trails have been built, and trains, lifts and tows have sprung up everywhere. We certainly have everything—except snow."

The greatest thrill of Toni's skiing career came last season when
